REPORT OF THE SECRETARY-GENERAL ON THE WORK OF THE ORGANIZATION

Mr. President,
Distinguished Delegates,
Ladies and Gentlemen

19. I have the honor to express my gratitude to Honorable Samdech Akka Moha Ponhea Chakrei Heng Samrin, the President of the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia for hosting the APA Plenary as the President. Cambodian parliament has been among the most active APA members in different APA meetings including the standing committees. I should also extend my sincere appreciation to the hardworking members of the organizing committee in Siem Reap, particularly Honorable NGUON Nhel, the Second Vice-President of the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia, as well as all colleagues in the APA Permanent Secretariat in Tehran for the excellent job they have done to bring us together here today. I am also thankful to all and every delegation of APA Member Parliaments participating in this important event. I would like also to welcome all distinguished representatives from important observer organizations.

Mr. President,
Honorable Delegates

The APA agenda of work in social-cultural, economic and political areas are relevant and potent. It addresses the most pressing challenges before Asia. In line with such inspiring ideals, all efforts made and every initiative taken by the APA ought to be defined and pursued to the interest of all people living in this great continent.

The APA is now expected to address not only the pressing issues and challenges facing Asia alone, but also the most important issues and challenges at the global level. The fact of the matter is that there is no meaningful separating line between regional issues and global challenges when the world community comes to address environmental degradation, sustainable development, terrorism, democracy and human rights, to mention just a few. As the largest inter-parliamentary organization in Asia representing more than 60% of the world population, APA should play much vivid and active role in promoting and pursuing Sustainable Development Goals. The APA network of Parliaments and Parliamentarians can and should utilize its enormous capacities, hand-in-hand with Asian governments, to mobilize cross-Asian initiatives for more effective coordination in regional as well as global issues.

It should be recognized, of course, that the purpose of many APA resolutions is policy coordination among its members and declaration of united stance vis-à-vis certain regional and global issues. This is, in itself, a major indispensable achievement. However, there are important matters which require sufficient and sustained implementation. There is no need to go into details of this kind of resolutions since they will be discussed in the APA Standing Committees meetings. It suffices here to only re-emphasize that the credibility and efficacy of our organization totally depend on the practical commitment of the members to what they resolve on.

APA has been extremely successful in reaching unanimity on many important issues.

Mr. President,
Distinguished Delegates,

Before us today, there are one decision and 21 important draft resolutions on political; economic; environmental; social-cultural, as well as financial and administrative issues which have been tabled and discussed in full details in the respective APA Standing Committees and have been subsequently considered by the Executive Council meetings in Phnom Penh, in September this year, and in Siem Reap just yesterday. - In the framework of APA Financial Regulations, the provisional budget of the Secretariat for 2017 was presented to the Standing Committee on Staff and Financial Regulations and 1st Executive Council meetings, held on 26-27 September 2016 in Phnom Penh for consideration. The participants considered the proposed budget in detail and different aspects of this document were reviewed. Finally, the 1st Executive Council meeting decided to refer it to the next meeting of Standing Committee on Staff and Financial Regulations in 2017 for further deliberation of Member Parliaments and inclusion of the technical views of financial experts. The meeting also requested the APA Secretariat to add more transparency on the different figures of the budget.

The 1st Executive Council meeting then adopted the following draft resolution and recommended it to the 9th Plenary for approval.

- Draft Resolution on Planning APA Budget.

Mr. President,

Distinguished Delegates

Notwithstanding all its great potentials and accomplishments, the remarkable role of the APA, as the Parliamentary voice of Asia, in influencing the turn of events in Asia is yet to be fully realized. The Organization needs to strengthen its relevance to current developments throughout Asia and beyond so it could further contribute to the prosperity, development, peace, and improvement of living conditions in the region. The APA is in need of mechanisms to pursue the realization of its resolutions. It is crucial to reiterate once again the necessity of fulfillment of the operative parts of all APA resolutions. To achieve this fundamental goal, it is highly advisable that each Member Parliament should establish an internal working group specially mandated to pursue the implementation of operative parts of the APA resolutions. APA secretariat welcomes all initiatives in this regard, and declares its readiness for all sorts of assistance and consultation. Such a crucial and practical approach would enable us to take positive steps towards realization of the objectives of our great Parliamentary Assembly.

The APA 9th Plenary, inspired by its inspiring theme: Promoting Peace and Sustainable Development in Asia, has a great deal of important subject matters on its agenda. Besides the speeches and remarks by dignitaries and parliamentary leaders of both the host and the guest countries during the general debate, we expect to have constructive discussions on various topics in our standing committees meetings. I am confident that by the end of this Plenary Session and as the result of thoughtful and vigorous debates and deliberations, we will have achieved yet another successful event and shall move forward in our right direction which is the direction of peace, prosperity, cooperation, and harmony among all Asian nations.

Thank you Mr. President.

   a) He made a reference to the discussion in the second Executive Council about "Migrant Workers Resolution" and said that the draft Resolution on Protection and Promotion of the Rights of Migrant Workers in Asia attracted a prolonged discussion in the Executive Council over the fact that some of the articles of the resolution refer to certain international conventions which are not consistent with the internal legal regulations of some APA members. He said we have to resolve this issue in such a way that everybody is satisfied and APA can continue its work in well balanced direction. Dr. Khorram informed the meeting that as a compromise, he had received an amendment including two paragraphs from the distinguished delegation of Saudi Arabia for adding to the resolution as footnotes. Then many interventions took placed between delegations of Bahrain, Saudi Arabia, Russia, Pakistan and Indonesia without any satisfactory result. Dr. Khorram asked the distinguished delegate of Pakistan to contact the aforementioned delegations for better coordination and reaching to a satisfactory formula.

   b) He emphasized that APA has attached a great importance to the role of women in the Asian Parliaments. In this regard, APA has established a Special Committee for Women Parliamentarians since 2009. APA would like to promote the role of women in the organization. He added this morning the committee was held with a satisfactory outcome including informative presentations and comments and some editorial corrections in the Women Parliamentarians resolution. Dr. Khorram re-emphasized that the inclusion of at least one woman in all APA delegations from each parliament where ever it is applicable, is necessary. The report of the Special Committee of APA Women Parliamentarians is attached as Annex – XII.
24. The Chairman opened the floor for any comments on the draft resolutions. There were some interventions in favor of the Women Parliamentarians resolution. The delegation of Russia proposed a sentence to be added at the end of the second paragraph of the resolution which was accepted by the other Member Parliaments. The delegation of Saudi Arabia proposed the word "women" be replaced by "all vulnerable factions of society, including women" in the same paragraph. This was accepted by the participants.

25. The remaining text of the nine resolutions was adopted without any additional views, comments or proposals by the participating APA Member Delegations in the Meeting. So the nine resolutions of the Standing Committee on Social and Cultural were approved for adoption in the Plenary.

Intervention by Iranian delegation

Mr. Chairman,
Dear Colleagues,

I would like to extend my sincere gratitude to you and your colleagues for the outstanding organization of this important meeting. I would also like to convey the regrets of H.E Dr. Larijani, the Speaker of the Islamic Parliament of Iran for not participating in this meeting. As you are aware, two unfortunate incidents have occurred for Iran during the last week, the terrorist attack against pilgrimages by DAESH in Iraq, which left several hundreds of innocent people including Iranians martyred and injured, as well as the train accident, which caused more than one hundred deaths and injuries. Both accidents have deeply shocked the Iranian people and others, and a public mourning is ongoing. Despite planning for this trip, H.E Dr. Larijani could not participate in the meeting due to the status quo and requirements to address the situation.

I would also like to express, on a behalf of myself and my Iranian colleagues, the readiness of the delegation of the Islamic Parliament of Iran to cooperate with your Excellency and all colleagues in order to help conduct a successful and fruitful meeting.
Thank you
First of all, on behalf of Samdech Akka Moha Ponhea Chakrei HENG SAMRIN, President of the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia, it gives me great pleasure to extend a very warm welcome to all honorable speakers, vice speakers, delegation heads and members of delegations from APA member parliaments for taking part in this important gathering of the Second Executive Council Meeting ahead of the Ninth Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly here in Siem Reap.

On behalf of the Organizing Committee, I would like to express my deepest thanks to honorable members for expending your valuable time to attend this meeting today at the invitation of the APA President. Your presence is a reflection of your willingness and strong commitment to achieve the common APA objectives.

As you are aware, the parliament of the Kingdom of Cambodia successfully organized the Eighth Plenary Session of APA from 7-12 December 2015 and First Executive Council Meeting of 2016 in Phnom Penh from 26-27 September.

Honorable Members, Ladies and Gentlemen
The First Executive Council Meeting has submitted to the Ninth Plenary Session resolutions drafted by the four standing committees.

The Standing Committee on Social and Cultural Affairs has drafted nine resolutions on culture, technology, health, migrant workers, corruption, women parliamentarians and religion as well as the smuggling of cultural items and the trafficking of illicit drugs.

The Standing Committee on Political Affairs has drafted four resolutions on principles of friendship and cooperation in Asia, interactions between APA and Asian Governments, terrorism and violent extremism as well as significant political developments in Asia.

The Standing Committee on Economic and Sustainable Development has drafted six resolutions. These deal with economic growth, the Sustainable Development Goals, an Asian Integrated Energy Market, environmental issues, poverty eradication as well as water and sanitation.

From the Standing Committee on Staff and Financial Regulations, we have one resolution on the APA budget.

But much work remains to done: Palestine has proposed a Resolution on the Irreversible Support for the Palestinian Nation and Pakistan has requested the establishment of a working group consisting of five sub-regions. We also have to consider Turkey’s election to the APA presidency after Cambodia and the Vice-Chairs of the Ninth Plenary.

Honorable Members, Ladies and Gentlemen

I firmly believe our Plenary Session will proceed smoothly in fraternal, friendly and cooperative atmosphere with a wide range of issues discussed based on the common spirit of Asian nations.

With much effort and time, and in the spirit of cooperation and friendship among parliaments in Asia, we have been able to prepare all documents to be submitted to the plenary. I wish to encourage representatives from APA member parliaments to air their views and share their experience as a basis for achieving the supreme common aspirations of Asian nations.

Thank you very much.

ROYAL MESSAGE

from

His Majesty Preah Bat Samdech Preah Boromneath
NORODOM SIHAMONI, King of Cambodia

9th Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly
November 27 to December 2, 2016
Siem Reap, Kingdom of Cambodia

On behalf of the Senate, National Assembly and Royal Government of the Kingdom of Cambodia, I wish to extend my warmest greetings and congratulations to Samdech Akka Moha Ponhea Chakrei HENG Samrin, President of the National Assembly and President of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly (APA), and all distinguished delegates participating in the annual APA gathering at the 9th Plenary Session of the assembly in the beautiful and historic city of Siem Reap.

I have observed that the theme for the plenary session, “Promoting Peace and Sustainable Development in Asia”, firmly expresses a friendly, fraternal and cooperative environment for consultations and discussions on political, economic and socio-cultural issues based on the common spirit of Asian nations.

I know that APA has in the past made enormous efforts for humanity to fully acquire the natural right to live in peace. I am convinced that APA is now pursuing and will pursue again this goal to liberate many of our brothers and sisters from all suffering in fratricidal killings that have no justification.

I sincerely appreciate the great achievements of APA, which represents the voice of Asian people, to benefit our nations by strengthening legislative processes, policies and strategic goals that fully complement international standards.

I am confident that the 9th Plenary Session will produce fruitful results, with the aim of contributing to Asia’s goals. May I wish this noble event a successful outcome in promoting peace and development in the region.

NORODOM SIHAMONI

Statement by His Excellency Dr. Mohammad Reza Majidi,

APA Secretary-General in Inaugural

Honorable Samdech HENG Samrin
Honorable Samdech SAY Chhum
Honorable Samdech HUN Sen
Mr. Chairman,
Distinguished Delegates,
Ladies and gentlemen,

Please allow me to begin by thanking you Mr. President for the outstanding accomplishments of our Assembly under your supervision and smooth and continuous conduct of the meetings held in Kingdom of Cambodia.

My thanks also go to the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia for its generous hospitality and for the seamless conduct of the Honorable Dr. Nguon Nhel, in organizing this very important event.

I would also like to express my sincere appreciation to H.E. Dr. Nejad-Hosseinian and the Secretariat whom I have also the pleasure of working with for their diligent work and tireless efforts since commence of the Secretariat’s foundation.

Mr. President,
Distinguished delegates,

This year’s Assembly, as the tenth anniversary of the foundation of APA, is taking place at a crucial juncture as the world in general and some regions of Asia in particular are faced with daunting challenges. It is my firm belief that only by undertaking joint efforts and enhancing multilateral cooperation in different fields we could meet the expectations and aspirations of our nations and manage to set out the right directions for long-term development of the APA.

The APA Secretariat remains strongly committed to this endeavor, and I shall be working closely with the APA Member Parliaments and other stakeholders towards promoting freedom, securing peace, stability, social justice and development in the region and beyond which are among the most important goals of our organization.

Mr President,
Distinguished delegates,

Every step toward the APA's established goals and objectives in its Charter requires the devotion and commitment of its member nations. The tireless exertions and passionate concern of dedicated individuals are paramount to achieving peace, justice, access to up-to-date knowledge, cooperative exploitation of human and natural resources, and right to welfare facilities for the health and nutrition of its member populations. We must remain resilient and fully engaged in our contributions in order to witness a thriving association and region.

We need all hands on deck to tackle the greatest obstacles to human and sustainable development.

Undoubtedly, the role of the APA in matters of contributing to the integration of Asian nations to realize its potential will set a clear example and precedent for other regions of the world.

Devotion to spiritual and moral values, which in itself forms the basis of all genuine democracy, is part and parcel of our old Asian civilizations. Surely, unity among APA Member States could be considered as the prerequisite for realization of ideas conducive to economic and social progress.

Mr President,
Distinguished delegates,

Parliamentary Diplomacy is an important perspective and alternative form of diplomacy, even if not widely studied yet, developed lately by the increasing role of Parliaments and their enrollment in foreign affairs and international relations issues.

Nevertheless, these facts, Parliaments represent a complex and diversified issues relating with the role they play in foreign issues. These competences give the Parliaments an important power in the process of diplomacy or foreign affairs.

Parliamentary Diplomacy could therefore, play a key role among Member States because it is considered as the main instruments to develop and promote the international relations between countries.

Lastly, I wish to express my utmost gratitude to you and other Member States for the trust that shall be placed in my experience and competence as I commence my job in the APA Secretariat. Needless to emphasize that I am fully committed to actualizing the mission and the vision of the APA. I am certain that together, we will be able to bring together the Member Parliaments into closer association and eventual integration into an Asian Parliament.

Thank you all for your kind attention.

Selected Impromptu Comments at the Opening of the 9th Plenary Session of Asian Parliamentary Assembly (APA) by Honorable Samdech Techo Hun Sen Prime Minister of Kingdom of Cambodia:

It Is Time to Assess Color Revolution
A moment ago, HE President of the Senate of Pakistan raised a number of recently emerging issues. I would like to take this opportune moment to seek your opinion if it is time for an assessment of the so-called color revolution. As of now, where have those who initiated and those who aided and abetted the color revolution gone into hiding? Places where there happened to be war to overthrow (someone or regimes) by military means and/or color revolution, disguised under democracy and human rights, are now suffering severe devastation.

What have the people of Iraq benefitted from the removal of Saddam Hussein, or Ben Ali for Tunisians, or Muammar Gaddafi for Libyans, Hosni Mubarak for Egyptians. Who would take responsibility for the war against the regime of President Assad in Syria or that of Yemen? Who are responsible? Was it worth it to have tens of thousands lives killed just for the sake of removing one leader or government? It is now time to see if color revolution is acceptable. What should the International Criminal Court (ICC) do to those war chieftains? Bring them to justice or give them Nobel Peace Prize? Aside from daily reported deaths in Iraq, Syria, Libya, Yemen, etc., how many refugees have had to cross the sea to get themselves to Europe?

Europe has been hash on those people too. What responsibility should Europe take to help those people? These issues are for us to ponder on to prevent recurrence of such actions by individuals or countries.

Take the case of Cambodia for instance, in detests of Samdech Preah Norodom Sihanouk, (certain elements) conducted a coup to remove him, the action of which brought about war, destruction and deaths. In between 1970 and 1975, tens of thousands of Cambodians died. In between 1975 and 1979, over three million Cambodians died. We were able to put an end to war in 1998. We Cambodians have tasted wars.

We need to have a door opening to peace. However, we are not narrow-minded nationalists. That we have a meeting here today, a big family of Parliamentary Assembly in Asia, we should see that it is our responsibility to bring this issue to attention. For the moment of speaking, I think fighting rages in Mosul and other parts of Syria. People fled their homes in Libya, Syria, Yemen and others for Europe, who has its door shut. I am calling on countries in Europe to open their doors for refugees, give them appropriate shelters, works, etc. because they are the ones with responsibility for supporting the color revolution related US policy.

An International Conference on Anti-Terrorism
I think it is also time for us to figure out why terrorism does not subside? It has evolved from a small Taliban group in Afghanistan to Al Qaeda, and now to ISIS or IS. Where did they come from? We should discuss this too. In the ASEAN-US summit in last February in the US, I raised this issue asking should we have an international conference on counter-terrorism. However, no one answered my question. Now, from here, I am appealing for an international conference on fight against terrorism, which should embody reasons why there arise terrorism? Why some countries have become targets of terrorist acts? Why some hated not only some individual leaders but also their allies? In order to defend peace we must prevent peace destroyer from taking their beings. To keep peace, there must be no war-makers. We may not blame the countries in wars but those who colluded and interfered to make and support wars.

Speak Out for a Peaceful, Reconciliatory, Cooperative and Sustainable World
Well, I seemed to have gone far beyond our subject matter but I think that maintaining peace is encompassing everything – development and peace has dialectical relation. Without peace, there would certainly be no development. Without development, it is impossible to keep peace.
Alleviating poverty is therefore an important reason in our efforts to prevent war and to keep lasting peace. In this moment, people of different nationalities are fleeing the Middle East to Europe and they are not legal settlers yet. I just heard days now that Turkey threatens to open the gates and send refugees to Europe. If that is true, I think it is a good point because it is indeed Europe’s responsibility for supporting the US policy in waging color revolution in the Middle East. They are obliged to provide descent shelters and works and not leave them deserted in the sea or keep them in dense camps like rats.

I have spoken the truth. I hope our foreign friends who have concerned themselves with wars in the Middle East and formerly the sufferings of Cambodia, Vietnam and Laos, must step out and accept responsibility. There would not be smoke, if there were no fire. Nowadays we seem to have sit fanning the smoke and do not extinguish the fire. Countries with ability to make war are not weak. We just blamed what has happened and what brought them up? Look into the case of Cambodia, why war came to our country. As to who had caused war, we have not actually spoken openly about it. Some did not dare to spit it out because they need those countries’ helps. For justice, no matter who that would be, (I) must dare speak out for a peaceful, reconciliatory, cooperative and sustainable world.

Well, also from this forum, I am expressing my deep concern on the North Korean nuclear issue. We have news, true or not there is no way to certify, that the leader of North Korea said he would fire missiles to welcome President-elect Donald Trump at his inaugural presidential ceremony. If it is true, it seems that firing missiles is just like making fireworks at any given ceremony. I may want to stress about the various topics campaigned in the presidential election this year in the US. They are worth having a look and studying. They had brought to light many issues – ISIS existence is whose mistake or responsibility, included.

I have no interest in interfering in the US affairs. Whoever wins the elections will become the president. It is a normal procedure. In Cambodia, 99% of onlookers bet that Donald Trump would lose. I could probably be only one person who said Trump would win. Well, winning or losing is problem of the American people. We would have to work with whoever wins the elections. I did not criticize Hillary Clinton as some people did. I see that it is now time that the US and Russia seeks reconciliatory term as the two countries’ tense relation has caused regional and world concerns. I do not give my consent to so and so wins the elections. My comment rests on analysis of the relation of the two nuclear great powers – Russia and the US. According to what Donald Trump promised during the election campaign, I hope that the two nuclear great powers will move for rapprochement. I also understand that my voice would not cause dissatisfaction from outgoing President Barack Obama or conceded Presidential candidate Hillary Clinton.

SPEECH

by

Samdech Vibolsena Pheakdei SAY CHHUM,
President of the Senate of the Kingdom of Cambodia, at the 9th Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly

28 November 2016

- Samdech Akak Moha Ponhea Chakrei HENG SAMRIN, President of the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia
- Samdech Akak Moha Sena Padei Techo HUN SEN, Prime Minister of the Kingdom of Cambodia
- His Excellency Dr. NGOUN NHIL, Second Vice President of the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia and Chair of the Organizing Committee of the 9th APA Plenary Session
- His Excellency Mr. Secretary General of APA
- Excellencies, Lok Chum Teav, Ladies and Gentlemen, Distinguished National and International Guests!

I have the honor and great pleasure to participate in the opening of the 9th Plenary Session of APA in Siem Reap Province where some of the world-renowned temples and one the Seven Wonders of the World is located. On behalf of the Cambodian people, the Senate of Cambodia and myself, I would like to extend my warmest welcome to neighboring and distant foreign friends and distinguished guests, who are attending the 9th Plenary Session of APA today.

The 9th Plenary Session of APA and its theme of “Promoting Peace and Sustainable Development” provides an important forum for representatives from assemblies within the Asian region to exchange views and experiences that contribute towards the enhancement of cooperation for peace, stability, progress, prosperity and sustainable development in the region.

Excellencies, Ladies and Gentlemen!

Cambodia, geographically located in the Southeast Asian region, experienced the Cold War along with civil wars and internal conflicts lasting for decades. The genocidal Khmer Rouge regime completely destroyed the country’s social infrastructures, and, in particular, human resources were severely diminished. After the collapse of the Khmer Rouge Regime in 1979, civil war was still not concluded in Cambodia, and the intervention of the United Nations and international communities (1991-1993), therefore, played a vital role in promoting peace and national unity in Cambodia.

Cambodia has since then striven by itself to overcome obstacles through dialogue and perpetual negotiation for national reconciliation. For instance, at the end of 1998, under the win-win policy of Samdech Akak Moha Sena Pakdei Techo HUN SEN, Prime Minister of the Kingdom of Cambodia, the Khmer Rouge organization was demolished politically and militarily, and its armed forces were integrated into the Royal Cambodian Armed Forces with the assurance of their safety, their jobs and occupations, and of private ownership for people who lived in the Khmer Rouge Zone.
The experiences outlined above compel me to emphasize how much value Cambodia places on the importance of negotiation, national unity and reconciliation within the internal national framework, which is preferable to external intervention or interference. These key factors have helped Cambodia to conclude armed conflicts with no bloodshed and have brought national unity, sovereignty, territory and peace for our people and country.

As a member of the United Nations, Cambodia has contributed actively to peace and humanitarian causes in the world through the dispatch of the Royal Cambodian Armed Forces. They have participated in UN Peacekeeping Missions in the fields of civil engineering, medical services, military monitoring, demining and the clearance of unexploded ammunition. Moreover, we have contributed to global endeavors to counter global warming.

Peace, political stability and full security have created the conditions that up until today have nurtured strong confidence, particularly evident in the presence of a growing number of local and international private investors who are investing in Cambodia and providing opportunities for rapid development in all sectors. Figures show that Cambodia has maintained an annual economic growth rate of 7% for a decade, and has reduced its poverty rate from 53.2% in 2004 to 13.5% in 2014. Indeed, Cambodia has been recognized as the 4th most successful nation in the world for poverty reduction. For sustainable development, Cambodia has become a member of ASEAN, the WTO, and regional and global integration frameworks by connecting its national infrastructure into the region and promoting exchange of culture, tourism and people, by cooperating in the preservation of the natural environment, and in facilitating trade and investment in the region.

Excellencies, Ladies and Gentlemen!

As we have already acknowledged, all countries in the Asian region have shown strong commitment to the cause of peace, stability, harmony, prosperity and development for the people and the region, and towards the establishment of the “Asian Association” in the future.

At the same time, however, the many challenges facing the Asian region have been acknowledged. These include the gap in economic development, the uncertainties faced by the regional economy in the context of globalization, weak infrastructure, poverty, climate change, the refugee crisis, terrorism, war, and so on. We are all much concerned about the spread of violence and armed conflict in some countries within the region that may threaten the peace, stability and development of their regional neighbors and of the wider world.

These factors require us to enhance our cooperation to open a new page in our relationships to sustain peace and true cooperation: in this way we can continue to build the Asian region as a place of friendship, peace, cooperation and comprehensive development. Through this process, the world’s superpowers will be encouraged to set aside ambitions to utilize the pretext of democracy and human rights in attempts to topple legitimate governments through illegal means, and to respect the rights of people to make their own decisions and to preserve the sovereignty of each country. In this way they would act in full accordance with article 2, Chapter 6 of the UN Charter, UN Resolution 26/25 dated 24 October 1970, and relevant international laws. We fully intend to comply with the three pillars of UN – with their emphasis on peace and security, development and human rights - and condemn political interventionism to achieve regime change by attempting to topple legitimate governments in violation of international laws.
The policy inherent in the arms race is the root cause of tension, war and power struggles to influence the region, and is a big concern in its potential to promote instability in our region.

In accordance with the stated ideals and on behalf of the Senate of Cambodia, I would like to fully support the resolution of the heads of state and governments, which emerged from discussions at the 2nd Summit of Asian Dialogue Cooperation on 9-10 October 2016 in Bangkok, Thailand. This outlined the priorities in the six pillars of cooperation in association with the UN’s agenda of 2030 for collective growth and sustainable development in the Asian region: (1) the inter-relationship of food, water and energy security; (2) connectivity; (3) science, technology and innovation; (4) education and human resource development; (5) culture and tourism; and (6) promoting approaches to inclusive and sustainable development.

In order to achieve these visions, we should enhance our comprehensive cooperation within the framework of the initiatives “One belt, one road”, and the “Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank” of China, as well as the Japanese initiative on “Partnership for Quality Infrastructure” in the Asian region. These provide financial resources to support the connectivity of infrastructure in our region thereby contributing to peace, stability and close cooperation, and to the enhancement of trade and investment to help to reduce the development gap between coastal and land areas.

Excellencies, Ladies and Gentlemen!

All parliaments have respected and valuable roles in promoting peace and sustainable development in our Asian region. Parliaments play key roles in monitoring national strategic development programs, poverty reduction strategies, and in the implementation of national policy and the international obligations of government. In cases of crisis and conflict, parliaments perform a fundamental role in providing a platform for dialogue and national reconciliation. Parliaments also have vital roles in leadership through law-making and as defenders of the rule of law and of human rights including those of ethnic groups and women.

The diplomatic role of parliaments is fundamental in the prevention of conflict and in building peace in the region. As the representatives of the people, parliamentarians are empowered to participate in the process through peaceful means to reach agreement between states. Moreover, parliamentarians participate in the parliamentary regional forums and fulfill a significant role in preventing or resolving disputes through their mission to discover reality in regions where conflict exists, and through inter-parliamentary dialogue. Parliamentary bilateral relations are of key importance when inter-governmental relations are in trouble or are deadlocked.

Finally, I hope that the 9th Plenary Session will achieve fruitful outcomes along with good recommendations as foundations and mechanisms for overcoming the challenges mentioned above.

I would like to wish Your Excellencies, Ladies and Gentlemen, distinguished national and international guests’ good health, happiness and great success.

Thank You!

Speech delivered by
Samdech Akka Moha Ponhea Chakrei HENG SAMRIN
President of the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia
9th Asian Parliamentary Assembly
28 November 2016, Sokha Hotel, Siem Reap

- Samdech Vibol Sena Pheakdei SAY CHHUM, President of the Senate of the Kingdom of Cambodia
- Samdech Akka Moha Sena Padei Techo HUN SEN, Prime Minister of the Kingdom of Cambodia
- Honorable Heads and Members of the APA Delegations, Observers and Partner Organizations
- National and International Distinguished Guests
- Ladies and Gentlemen

1- The National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia has had the great honor during its two-year term of office of receiving the unstinting and strong support from APA member countries, observers and partner organizations for hosting the 8th Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly in Phnom Penh and the 9th Plenary Session in Siem Reap, the city of wonder and home to the world-famous cultural heritage of Asia.

2- I would like to take this terrific opportunity to express my deepest compliments and most profound gratitude to His Majesty Preah Bat Samdech Preah Boromneath NORODOM SIHAMONI, King of Cambodia, who is delighted to send a most meaningful royal message to the 9th Plenary Session of APA.

3- On behalf of the Cambodian parliament and the Asian Parliamentary Assembly (APA), I would like to extend my warmest welcome to Samdech Vibol Sena Pheakdei SAY CHHUM, President of the Senate, Samdech Akka Moha Sena Padei Techo HUN SEN, Prime Minister of the Kingdom of Cambodia, as well as honorable APA delegates for gracing the 9th Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly with your great presence here today. We are delighted with the esteemed presence of the top leaders of the Kingdom of Cambodia in this event, which is a testimony and reflection of the firm support and common vision of the APA in promoting peace, stability, development and prosperity for Asian nations.

4- I would like to highly evaluate the profoundly meaningful addresses delivered by Samdech Vibol Sena Pheakdei SAY CHHUM, President of the Senate, Samdech Akka Moha Sena Padei Techo HUN SEN, Prime Minister of the Kingdom of Cambodia, and Honorable Dr. Nguon Nhel, Chairman of the Organizing Committee of the 9th APA plenary session, as well as the representative of the APA secretary general, which have unequivocally reflected your strong will, determination and active contribution towards accomplishing our common aspirations.

Samdech, Honorable Members, Ladies and Gentlemen
5- This historic gathering among parliaments from Asian countries today has shown the world our common will in building a more harmonious Asian region and settling conflicts through peaceful means based on the principles of peaceful coexistence and mutual respects.

6- Our Asian vision will not be achieved by the parliament of the Kingdom of Cambodia alone without closer cooperation among APA member parliaments at both bilateral and multilateral levels. The Cambodian parliament is honored to continue further cooperation with parliaments from countries in the region and the world so as to jointly build a peaceful society and attain sustainable development aimed at bringing prosperity and dignity to the people.

7- In actual fact, ending wars is a huge and hard task facing us, but maintaining and ensuring peace, particularly strengthening the culture of peace, is a more serious difficult duty to be fulfilled before we could achieve complete sustainable development. To this end, we commit ourselves to redoubling our utmost concerted efforts to preserve these to which peace and development strike root.

8- In this emerging context of global development, the expansion of world powers’ influences and protracted wars which are breaking out in some countries have claimed so many lives and resulted in huge amounts of property damage, exacerbating refugee crises and terrorism that pose a grave threat to regional and global security and stability.

9- In addition, our world is currently facing many colossal issues, including the uncertainty of global economic growth, climate change and growing natural disasters which are the major hindrances to stability, security and peace, especially hamper development in all countries in the region and the world.

10- These have stressed the need to further strengthening international cooperation at all levels aimed at addressing the issues facing us with the goal of ensuring sustainable development, stability, security, peace and harmony in our societies.

11- Therefore, our efforts to bolster international cooperation among countries and nations are indispensable which require legislatures in each country to effectively fulfill their core roles with the strong sense of responsibility in establishing legal frameworks and giving ratification to some instruments voicing support to governments’ policies in the maintenance of peace and speeding up development.

12- In this sense, the 9th Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly offers a great opportunity for us to discuss some more issues, exchange views and synthesize our conception, especially to materialize a long-term vision with conscience in order to use as a road-map for future broader and in-depth cooperation.

13- To achieve the APA vision, we need to further strengthen and deepen our cooperation at both bilateral and multilateral levels, including the full and effective implementation of agreements, MOUs and other legal instruments in place, mainly the implementation of the resolutions passed by APA plenary sessions.
Honorable Members, Ladies and Gentlemen

14- In the context of globalization, all countries inevitably experience the arising of risky impacts and eventualities, especially countries which have shared geographies and economies. Key to tackling these challenges is only made through multinational legislative cooperation which is used as an effective central means for the promotion of peace and development in the region.

15- I firmly hope our plenary session will proceed smoothly in an atmosphere of friendship, fraternity and good cooperation, while a whole host of issues will be raised for discussions and consultations based on the common spirit of our Asian nations.

16- Lastly, I wish to encourage the representatives from APA member parliaments who are present here to further share views and good experience that build on realizing the ultimate aspiration of our nations in Asia.

I hereby would like to declare the 9th plenary session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly open.

Thank you very much.

Asian Parliamentary Assembly
The 9th Plenary Session
“Promoting Peace and Sustainable Development in Asia”
Siem Reap, Kingdom of Cambodia
27 November 02 December 2016

بسم الله الرحمن الرحيم

Excellency President of the Plenary Session,
Hon. Parliamentarians, distinguished delegates,
Ladies and Gentlemen;

Good Morning/Afternoon,
At the outset, allow me please to convey the warm greetings and best wishes of the members of the National Assembly of Afghanistan to you all distinguished participants and hope that our meetings could be a great tool to ensure the multi-lateral cooperation between our governments to realize the goals and objectives we have set forth, promoting peace and sustainable development. Asia is the largest continent with most of the countries with different Socio-economic development level, peace and sustainable development is considered a serious need for all our countries.

Distinguished delegates,

Peace is needed for all the countries; however, peace is most important for those countries that have been deprived of this great blessing, because conflict and insecurity jeopardizes their peace and safety.

Distinguished Participants,

As you all know that I represent a country that has been facing thirty years of war and external interference which has taken the peace and safety of our people, the infrastructure and public facilities have been destroyed, unfortunately, the current growth and development and implementation of the fundamental programs have either been blocked or dulled.

What is going to be emphasized on, in this plenary session is to promote peace, and peace is a gift that human societies could achieve all their goals through, whether its planning, implementation or opening the pores of progress, economic, social, cultural and technological growth.

Without any doubt achieving peace and promoting peace requires honest efforts, attention and sincere cooperation of all the participating countries in a particular geography and I believe that if one of the countries facing insecurity, unrest and war, it can have a direct impact on other countries, challenging the security and mental peace of the people across the region where the psychological unrest is not only logical, but also, experience of few years has proved it, that the terrorists don't focus only on a single country, they don't spare a single nationality, country or ethnic group but through threats, intimidation, murder and destruction, mobilizing and using the resources of the nations want to broaden their existence and inhuman activities to achieve their goals.
The terrorists are extremists, whom are not subjected to any specific religion or name, that's why the terrorists from different nations and countries with common aim promoting extremism and violence and destruction of human and public facilities have come together and work as a united force to achieve their ominous goals, they don't have mercy on civilians nor the holy places, the terrorists have not only attacked the public facilities but also have targeted the holy places several times, just few days before the terrorists carried out a suicide attack on a Mosque in the capital Kabul in a ceremony commemorating the fortieth of (Imam Hussain) which killed at least 30 people and left more than 80 seriously injured.

Therefore, we have to take concrete steps to eliminate the safe havens, funding sources and equipping the terrorists as well as those countries interfering in the domestic affairs of others to repel their ominous plans and programs and strengthen our close economic and security cooperation to save our countries from the vicious of terrorism, extremism and violence.

I would like to quote 'Allama Mohammad Iqbal Lahori's Poem about Afghanistan, that says:

"Asia is a body of water and clay, of which the Afghan nation forms the heart, the whole of Asia is corrupt, if the heart is corrupt, it's decline is the decline of Asia, its rise is the rise of Asia.

Therefore, Afghanistan that has become a target of conspiracy and plot of the strangers needs to be saved, I believe that sustainable development in Asia without ensuring peace in the areas where peace is being challenged is impossible and peace will not prevail.

Distinguished delegates,

We have so many opportunities for development; cooperation is the only way that can assist us on the way to development and progress, our countries have rich natural resources such as water resources, mines agricultural land, industry and trade and energy transfer. Afghanistan is a good approach that can connect Central Asia with South Asia and the rest of the geography for trade development and energy transfer. We have very good work force in Afghanistan that could help our countries in the sustainable development sector.

I promise on behalf of the Afghan Parliament to implement all the decisions of the Plenary Session and will be committed to it and will not hesitate to extend our further assistance and cooperation for the realization of these decisions.
Distinguished Participants,

Although, you know more about the current situation in my country, but I briefed you, the terrorists, Al-Qaeda, the Taliban, and Daesh that belong to other countries, taking advantage of the long and insecure borders of our country infiltrate in Afghanistan to kill innocent civilians and destabilize our country. They are also trying to benefit from greater insecurity promoting the cultivation and drug trafficking and illegally exploiting the mines and other natural resources to financially support their needs and requirements and challenge the peace and stability of our country and continue the killing of our armed forces.

While thanking the host country, the government and the people of the kingdom of Cambodia for the kind hospitality extended to all of us in the beautiful cultural city of Siem Reap, I would like to kindly request the distinguished participants to further cooperate with us in countering terrorism, international mafia and drug trafficking to end the killing of the our people and ensure and promote peace and sustainable development in South Asia.

I thank you very much for the kind attention.
Speech by the Head of Delegation from Bahrain

Statement

of

HE Mr. Ahmed bin Ibrahim Almulla
Speaker of the Council of Representatives

Head of the Inter-parliamentary Group Delegation to the 2nd Executive Council Meeting and the 9th Plenary Session of the APA

Siem Reap – Kingdom of Cambodia

28th November – 1st December 2016

In the name of Allah, the Most Gracious, the Most Merciful,

All praise is due to Allah, and Allah’s Peace and Blessings be upon Our Master, the messenger of Allah, and his family and companions,

Your Excellency, Mr. Heng Samrin, President of the APA, Speaker of the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia,

Your Excellencies, Heads of Delegations,

Ladies and Gentlemen,

Assalamu Alaikom wa Rahmatu Allah wa Barakatuh
(peace be upon you and Allah’s Mercy and Blessings)

I am honored to be participating with you today, on behalf of the Inter-parliamentary Group of the Kingdom of Bahrain, in the Second Executive Council Meeting, and the Ninth Plenary Session of the APA. Allow me to extend my thanks and appreciation to the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia, for the excellent organization and the generous hospitality. I would also like to thank the members of the Secretariat of the APA, for their distinguished efforts, towards promoting the cooperation between Asian parliaments. I wish to our meeting all success, to serve the interests of the countries and peoples of the continent of Asia.

Ladies and Gentlemen,
The Sustainable Development Goals, set by the UN and endorsed by 193 member states to reflect the international community’s common vision towards humanity, are distinguished for their comprehensiveness.

My country, the Kingdom of Bahrain, has recognized the importance of sustainable development in the realization of development and growth, and so it has taken major steps to establish the principles of sustainable development. The vision of the Kingdom of Bahrain 2030, which was launched in 2008, is based on three fundamental principles: sustainability, fairness and competitiveness. His Majesty, King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa, has stressed in many occasions that development and security are inseparable. Moreover, the Kingdom of Bahrain has taken the initiative to host the Green Climate Fund to serve West Asia, at the COP 21 climate change conference, in 2015.

The Kingdom of Bahrain is considered one of the first countries to base action plans of ministries and concerned authorities, as included in the Government Action Plan, on sustainable development goals, with an aim to achieve these goals, through the use of national indicators to set the targets of government institutions and bodies and their services to citizens, residents and society.

In culmination of these Bahraini efforts, His Majesty, King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa has been recently granted the United Nations Industrial Development Organization’s award, in appreciation for His Majesty’s vision towards the economic empowerment of women and youth, through a number of strategies and development projects that contributed to the realization of the principles of sustainable development.

Ladies and Gentlemen,

On the basis of national legislative and oversight role, we observed, during the discussions of the Government Action Plan 2014-2018, that the plan should include priorities that would help to realize the sustainable development goals.

In addition, during their 10th meeting in Bahrain last week, the speakers of the GCC parliaments took into consideration all the challenges faced by the countries and peoples of the region and the world. The outcome document of the meeting included the selection of two topics: The Concerns of Food and Water Security, and Security and the Youth, to be the two GCC common topics in 2017, in addition to adopting a common vision to tackle the issue of terrorism and terrorist organizations.

Ladies and Gentlemen,
The realization of the sustainable development goals is not possible without the achievement of security and peace in the world. Before we advance humanity, we should provide people with a safe environment, through which they can play a creative and innovative role in their societies and be able to build and develop.

Moreover, our responsibility as parliamentarians, has been is doubled now. And this makes us face a historical challenge to stop wars and spread peace, through the enactment of laws, legislations, and international treaties and conventions. It is a joint responsibility, for governments, parliamentarians, organizations and peoples. And it requires the mobilization of all efforts to tackle major challenges faced by our contemporary world, taking into consideration the full respect of national sovereignty, religious, moral and cultural values of countries, as well as human rights.

We shall not forget, at this important forum, to reiterate our assertion that the Palestinian Cause, and the right of the State of Palestine to end the Israeli occupation and live a safe decent life, is the leading concern of the Islamic and Arab nations.

I would also like to call on the APA to oppose laws that impinge on the sovereignty of states or contradict with international treaties and conventions, and to establish a clear stance to reject all forms of external interferences in the internal affairs of states, as well as attempts to incite sedition, undermine the security and stability of the region, and support terrorist groups.

Lastly,

I wish the APA all success in this meeting, and all success to the Asian cooperation towards a better world, where security, stability and peace prevail.

Assalmu Alaikom wa Rahmatu Allah wa Barakatuh
(peace be upon you and Allah’s Mercy and Blessings)
Speech by the Head of Delegation from Bangladesh

Promoting Peace and Sustainable Development

Hon. President of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly
Hon. Members of Delegation
Friends from Media
Distinguished Guests
Ladies and Gentlemen.

Excellency,

Bangladesh has a success story in achieving many of the goals like reducing headcount poverty and poverty gap ratio, reducing the prevalence of underweight children, attaining gender parity at primary and secondary education, under-five mortality rate reduction. In addition, Bangladesh has made remarkable progress in, increasing enrolment at primary schools, lowering the infant mortality rate and maternal mortality ratio, improving immunization coverage and reducing the incidence of communicable diseases. On the other hand, areas in need of greater attention are hunger-poverty reduction and employment generation, increases in primary school completion and adult literacy rates, ensuring quality education at all levels, creation of decent wage employment for women, increase in the skilled coverage of Information and Communication Technology and now Bangladesh is a role model of development.

Ladies and Gentlemen,

Bangladesh has made commendable progress in respect of eradication of poverty and hunger. It has sustained a GDP growth rate of 6 percent or above in recent years that has played a positive role in eradicating poverty. The robust growth has been accompanied in corresponding improvements in several social indicators such as increased life expectancy and lower fertility rate despite having one of the world’s highest population densities. I believe, good governance is essential for implementing Sustainable Development Goals in all countries. Sound economic policies, solid democratic institutions responsive to the needs of the people and improved infrastructure are the basis for sustained economic growth, poverty eradication, and employment creation. Each country has the primary responsibility for its own sustainable development, and the role of national policies and development strategies cannot be overemphasized. All countries should promote sustainable development at the national level by enacting and enforcing clear and effective laws that strengthen institutions supporting sustainable development.
Ladies and Gentlemen,

Bangladesh Government has been trying to ensure the inclusive development goals encapsulating people of all walks. The “Perspective Plan of Bangladesh (2010-2021): Making Vision 2021 a Reality” is a strategic articulation of the development vision, mission, and goals of the Government in achieving a prosperous Bangladesh grounded in political and economic freedoms a reality in 2021. The seventh five year plan has set the strategies for sustainable inclusive development goals and strategies. The 7th FYP, spanning fiscal years 2016-2020, begins with the country having entered the ranks of a middle income country. The first year of the 7th Plan also coincides with the launch of the UN post-2015 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). A sustainable development pathway that is resilient to disaster and climate change entails sustainable use of natural resources and successfully manages the inevitable urbanization transition. Accelerated poverty reduction is a key objective of the 7th FYP.

Ladies and Gentlemen,

The APA Parliamentarians should take all necessary and appropriate measures, including ensuring support for structural and macroeconomic reform, a comprehensive solution to the external debt problem and increasing market access for developing countries. International financial architecture needs to be slightly reformed and sustained with greater transparency and the effective participation of developing countries in decision-making processes. A universal, rules-based, open, non-discriminatory and equitable multilateral trading system, as well as meaningful trade liberalization, can substantially stimulate development worldwide, benefiting countries at all stages of development.

Ladies and Gentlemen,

I believe that democracy, peace and prosperity are interlinked. We are determined to foster peaceful, just and inclusive societies which are free from fear and violence. There can be no sustainable development without peace and no peace without sustainable development. Through unrest, disillusionment, apathy or political disengagement, young people are demonstrating their aspiration to democratic, peaceful and prosperous societies. I firmly believe that it is important to involve youth as key stakeholders and decision-makers. There can be no strong democracy, no lasting peace and no sustainable prosperity without the contribution of women, young people, policy makers, and the civil society who represent a major segment of the population all over the world. APA is aimed at promoting peace, democracy, and gender equality in Asian countries. So, I earnestly urge all Member Parliaments to enhance their helpful hands to promote tolerance and empathy among Asian nations with a view to diminish distrust, misunderstanding, and conflict among religious communities.

Thank You All.
Speech by the Head of Delegation from Bhutan

Statement by Hon’ble Chimi Dorji, Dy. Speaker of the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Bhutan at the 9th Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly ("Promoting the Peace & Sustainable Development in Asia")
27th November 2016

His Excellency Samdech Akka Moha Ponhea Chakrie HENG Samrin, President of APA,
His Excellency Dr. Mohammad Reza Majidi, Secretary General of APA, Excellencies,
Distinguished Delegates,
Ladies & Gentlemen,

At the outset, I would like to take this privilege to convey the warm greetings and good wishes of His Majesty the King and people of Bhutan. I am equally privileged to participate in this important meeting which signifies our legitimate concerns for the future. Peace and sustainable development are in fact inalienable from each other and more importantly these are underlying factors for global harmony.

In my country, peace and sustainable development are elaborately emphasized through the philosophy of Gross National Happiness. This philosophy of ours is nothing but development guided by human values. Today, as I am bestowed with this wonderful opportunity, I would like to urge my fellow parliamentarians to be mindful of our role in ensuring peace and sustainable development because it is the political institutions which shape economic and social institutions.

Bhutan has had significant progress on achieving Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) especially in enhancing sustainable access to sanitation and safe drinking water. MDGs were instrumental in Bhutan’s graduation from being a least developed country and have helped prioritize poverty alleviation.

There is one thing in common which we Asians share both in spirit and fortitude. It is the commonality of our culture, a culture which holds the basic human values like loving kindness and collective happiness. The fundamental purpose of development is peace and this notion should navigate our approach to sustainable development.

Asian Parliamentary Assembly over the years has provided an excellent platform for sharing great ideas and experiences. In order to further our noble endeavor to foster bonds between our parliaments, we must prioritize and continue to render our cooperation and support to fulfill our common goals.

Economic and social developments can only be sustained if we work along the principle of judicious utilization of resources. In other words, I would like to underline and say—a balanced development. These are where our values play a pivotal role. I am confident that each country which we represent here today has a rich history which narrates how our forefathers have built our nations for generations beyond theirs’. This simply reflects that idea of sustainability was born yesteryear and we can’t afford its implementation to be delayed any further.

Our world is increasingly become materialistic with consumerism dominating most of the societies. We have exploited our planet far beyond one could imagine and thus we have already started bearing the brunt of our ignorance. Most of the emerging economies of the world are based in Asia and this makes us more vulnerable to unsustainable developmental practices.
The Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) which was adopted by the United Nations last year has been very timely. The governments of the world have pledged their role in achieving the SDGs and now it is the lawmakers who should shoulder the responsibility at par with the government machineries.

I strongly feel that the parliaments can do our share of efforts in achieving SDGs by aligning these goals with our functions. Our laws, policies and resolutions all must orient itself to achieving SDGs and ensure that parliamentary oversight power guarantees its timely implementation.

At a time when our world is continuously inflicted with the agony of conflicts and climate change, universal brotherhood has become more important than ever as it requires our collective effort to secure international peace. We, as parliamentarians must be on the forefront of cementing international ties and promoting peace through parliamentary diplomacy. We must remember that together, we are accountable to more than 4 billion Asians who have elected us with a single objective to uphold peace for a better living.

In this context, Asian parliamentarians have greater reason to reach consensus for regional and world peace because of our diversity. We must ensure that we see unity in our diversity. And having such perspective will harmonize our endeavors for a peaceful region and world at large. But more importantly, our national parliaments must act and legislate inclusive of all segments of society without which peace would be a distant dream.

Social consciousness must influence governance and state functions, absence of which will turn any other effort to ensure peace futile. At the same time, it is good governance with democratic principles which will guarantee peace not only for today but times to come.

Ladies & Gentlemen,
A responsible development is characterized by the right balance between equitable and sustainable livelihood ecological conservation, good governance and a thriving culture. This in reality will undoubtedly promote contentment which will ultimately lead to peace and harmony.

I personally believe that it takes a very simple perspective to achieve peace and sustainable development and that is by recognizing the principle of interdependence. However, it is our approach that has to be reformed transcending individual interest.

On our return to our respective countries, whatever we discuss and resolve in this meeting must be translated in to reality. We may be faced with challenges in implementing the consensus we have reached and therefore it is imperative that we reinforce our commitment through legislations.

Before I conclude, on behalf of the Parliament of Bhutan, I would like to recommit our pledge for continued peace and sustainable development for our region and the world at large.

THANK YOU!

Intervention

Hon Chheang Vun, Chairman of the Commission on Foreign Affairs, International Cooperation, Information and Media, National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia, at the Ninth Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly, Siem Reap, November 28 - December 1, 2016

Respect to:

- Honorable Dr. Nguon Nhel, Chairman of the 9th Plenary Session of APA
- Honorable Heads and Members of APA delegation of APA Member of Parliament
- His Excellency Secretary General of APA
- Excellency, Ladies and Gentlemen

It is a great honor and pleasure to lead the Cambodian delegation today in the overall debate on the occasion of the Ninth Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly.

Please allow me to express my appreciation to the Honorable Dr. Nguon Nhel, chair of the organizing committee, who has smoothly arranged this event. Our theme is to promote sustainable peace and development. It reflects a strong commitment to our determined role in collaborating and cooperating in building a culture of peace and contributing to national, regional and global development.

Honorable Members, Ladies and Gentlemen

Peace is required by families, nations, regions and the world. It does not exist alone so building and keeping the peace are at our own risk.

Peace will prevail if we have tolerance, mutual understanding and no prejudice, coming together for political, social and economic stability with no internal interference and with respect for the privileges of member states. Moreover, peace acquired results in national unity and reconciliation, stepping towards unity and reconciliation with neighbors, the region and the world.

In New York last year, the United Nations highlighted that ensuring peace was a major goal in the Post-2015 Development Agenda to build sustainable societies and create prosperity and equity for all people by 2030. This reflects the paramount need of both the nations and people of Asia, who are hungry for sustainable peace and development.

Cambodia is very proud of achieving remarkable progress in maintaining full peace, political stability, security, better public order and rapid economic growth over the past two decades. This is the result of efforts by our wise leaders, particularly Samdech Techo Hun Sen, prime minister of the Kingdom of Cambodia, with the help of our neighbors and development partners.

How did we get to where we are today? Before achieving national reconciliation, peace and development, Cambodia experienced four decades of internal conflict with civil war followed by a genocidal regime in which our society fell under unfriendly influence from outside as part of the confrontation between Cold War superpowers. Cambodians were not only the victims of war but also suffered from illegal economic sanctions by some countries.

On Friday we commemorate the thirty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the National Salvation Front on December 2, 1978. The front has been active in protecting and building the country since then. However, the loss, suffering and great tragedy of the Cambodian people still linger. The unforgettable memories and lessons remind us all of the spirit of national unity, patriotism and common obligation in building and maintaining peace, which we achieved only with difficultly and countless sacrifices.

Maintaining peace has come with ensuring diversity of opportunity for the people, the pillars for restoring and developing the national economy. With strong political leadership, Cambodia has also been participating in world peace-keeping efforts. Participating in this parliamentary forum today is real evidence of the spirit of peace in which a regional legislative body holds sway over armed confrontation between member states. While maintaining peace, ensuring and applying democracy in conformity with the circumstances and real environment of society are important ingredients for contributing to sustainable development.

Achieving the sustainable development agenda requires close partnerships between the public and private sectors as well as development partners and civil society. These partnerships should be based on non-interference and common values, visions and goals that allow us to study and understand each other clearly.
in order to unite and cooperate with one another to address local and global challenges in a spirit of responsibility and efficiency aimed at maintaining harmony for all.

Honorable Members, Ladies and Gentlemen

Cambodia has integrated its economy into regional and international frameworks in a responsible manner. With strong commitment, the government has developed the economy remarkably over the past two decades. Cambodia is among only eight countries liberated from war to achieve rapid economic growth. In terms of improved social indicators, we rank first in the Asia-Pacific region. We also achieved the Millennium Development Goals of the United Nations ahead of the deadline set for 2015. Having recently graduated from the class of least-developed countries, Cambodia is now a low-income developing country and we aim to be a country with medium average income by 2030.

Cambodia has been embracing national reconciliation towards real peace — free from violence and armed conflicts. Through assemblies like ours, we are optimistic that peace will prevail in Asia and the rest of the world. Cambodia will continue to actively take part in extending and maintaining and long-lasting peace. Without national reconciliation, there will be no peace — and without peace, there will be no development. In this sense, Cambodia will endorse every initiative leading to national reconciliation and regional peace for ensuring sustainable development.

I hope that peace and sustainable development will continue to be our goal, particularly among top world leaders.

Finally, on behalf of Cambodian delegation, I would like to express by sincere appreciation for your discussions and participation.

Thank you.
Speech by the Head of Delegation from China

Keynote Speech at the 9th APA Plenary
by H.E. Wang Xiaochu
Vice-chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the National People's Congress of China

Mr. chairman,
Dear colleagues,
Ladies and gentlemen,

At the outset, I would like to thank our host, the National Assembly of Kingdom of Cambodia, and the honorable speaker Mr. HENG. Samrin as well as the APA Secretariat for the excellent arrangements for this session.

Peace and development are the main theme of all Asian countries. The world of today is undergoing profound transformations and changes. The world economy is very weak in recovery. Regional conflicts and global challenges, such as political and security disputes and turmoil, refugee crisis, climate change and terrorist threats, are on the rise. Economic globalization is suffering from setbacks. Unstable and uncertain factors of the international landscape become more common. Against this backdrop, the regional situation in Asia remains largely stable. With a fast-growing economy and thriving regional cooperation, Asia has become the most dynamic area of the world with greatest potential in development. It is beyond doubt that Asian countries are also confronted with new challenges. There are some countries expanding military input and deployment in the Asian-Pacific region. There is country attempting to lift their military restrictions. Non-traditional security threats, such as terrorism, natural disasters and trans-national crimes, are more prominent. Facing the new situation and new challenges, Asian countries should engage in more cooperation in the pursuit of peace, the maintaining of stability and the promotion of development.

Parliamentarians, as representatives of the people, are responsible for safeguarding people's interests. The parliaments of our region should make concerted efforts in our full functions to promote peace and sustainable development in Asia.

Firstly, we should stand firmly to safeguard peace and stability in Asia. There can never be sustainable development without peace and stability. The dynamism and potentials of our region can only be available thanks to the largely stable environment. This is a hard-won outcome, which we should be cherished dearly. We should be committed in pursuing common security, comprehensive security, and cooperative security with sustainable development, strengthening the inclusiveness of our regional security structure. We should adhere to the direction of settling disputes by political means, and replace confrontation by dialogue and give up alliance for partnership. Therefore, we can build jointly a new-type of international relationship with win-win cooperation as the core. China is ready to join hands with other countries, to promote the vision of an Asian community of shared future, to fight against all kinds of traditional and non-traditional security challenges, to cooperate in good faith for a common pursuit, and to protect the healthy and stable environment for Asian development.

Secondly, we should make joint efforts to promote development and prosperity in Asia. In September of this year, the G20 summit held in Hangzhou, China, reached a series of important consensus on building an innovative, energetic, concerted and inclusive world economy by all. During the APEC Economic Leaders' Meeting in Lima a few days ago, member economies reaffirmed their determination to build the Asian-Pacific free trade zone and develop an open economy. China is willing to join hands with all parties to strengthen collaboration, in order to translate consensus into actions and promote continuously regional integration. Together, we can strive for better connectivity and more macro-policy coordination among Asian countries, so that the 2030 Sustainable Development Agenda could be implemented in an active manner.
Thirdly, we should enhance mutual learning and sharing among Asian countries. Asian civilizations boast diversity as a prominent feature. We should call for mutual respect among various civilizations, encourage learning from others, find agreement to disagreement, and pursue common development. APA, in recognizing and respecting the diversity of our region, has always upheld the spirit of equality, cooperation, unity and inclusiveness. China is ready to join hands with all parties to engage in more dialogues among different civilizations, which could reinforce mutual understanding and harmonious coexistence among Asian people. China firmly opposes any attempt to link terrorism with a particular religion, civilization or ethnicity. We believe that mutual learning and sharing among different civilizations can be an important driving force for peaceful and sustainable development in Asia.

Dear colleagues,

China, as the largest developing country as well as the second largest economy in the world, has its development rooted in Asia. Three years ago, the Chinese leader proposed the "Belt and Road Initiative" for cooperation. Currently, the projects and constructions under the initiative are carried out in a smooth manner, and produced a series of early harvest. The production capacity cooperation has been accelerated, economic corridor building has made important headways, the network of connectivity has been shaping up. China is willing to make more efforts to coordinate and integrate development strategies with other countries, to build the "Belt and Road" together, to create new opportunities for Asian development together, which can further motivate the integration process and common prosperity in Asia.

Thank you all.

9th APA PLENARY SESSION
Siem Reap-Cambodia, 27 November – 2 December 2016

GENERAL DEBATE – 29 November
“Promoting Peace and Sustainable Development in Asia”
Mr. Nicos Tornaritis, MP (Cyprus)

Esteemed Chairperson,
Honourable colleagues,

Asia is the largest, most populated continent in the world; abound with natural resources and a forceful young human capital, Asia has unique advantages and the potential to become the global driving force of economic and political stability and prosperity. This is a vision that I know is shared by all of us and inspires us to further intensify and consolidate our efforts towards achieving the goals of peace and sustainable development, as set out in the APA Charter.

As Parliamentarians, we have an obligation to help achieve these goals and work for the prevalence of lasting peace, the promotion of international reconciliation and the overall safeguarding of democracy. At the same time we also have an obligation to ensure that the fundamental rights of the people of Asia are respected. In this regard, the link between the promotion of peace and sustainable development is more pertinent than ever before. As conflicts and uncertainty are flaring across the globe, we must seek to secure those conditions that will allow the people of Asia to develop and progress, thus fostering stability, prosperity and ultimately peace. The message is clear: sustainable development is both a key to combating environmental degradation and climate change, and a forceful medium for nurturing stability and prosperity.

The Paris Agreement aiming to enhance the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change entered into force a few weeks ago. It can be rightly described as the world’s first comprehensive agreement on climate change, and is a major global achievement that we must all work dedicatedly to implement.

The involvement of the APA, acting in synergy with other inter-parliamentary and inter-governmental organisations in these efforts, is crucial. Parliaments have a critical part to play in ensuring the overall implementation of the Paris Agreement and the Post-2015 agenda, through the passing of laws, the adoption of budgets and the holding of governments to account in implementing the commitments they have made while ensuring the efficient use of limited resources.

Inclusiveness and participation are of the utmost importance in these efforts. We must ensure, in our role as representatives of the people that civil society, the business community and all other stakeholders have a direct role to play. We must work to ensure that the link between economic growth and sustainable development is achieved, through harnessing the human capital and resources of each country, in the context of its own local circumstances and fully respecting its particular environmental conditions. These are the primary aims as set out in the pertinent resolutions before us for approval, during this (9th) Plenary Session.

A truly transformative (Post-2015) development agenda cannot of course be realized without full enjoyment of human rights, adherence to the rule of law and good governance. These fundamental principles constitute the backbone of peace and stability within and among countries and they are prerequisites for worldwide sustainable development.

In the context of peace efforts, the President of the Republic of Cyprus and the Leader of the T/C community have recently held a round of intensified negotiations in Switzerland regarding the Cyprus problem, in the hope to reunite the island and end the 42-year old division, bringing about once again lasting peace and security for both communities, thus reinstating all human rights violations that have taken place since the 1974 invasion of Cyprus. However, it was not made possible to reach consensus on the core territorial issue. The President of the Republic will not spare any efforts to resume a meaningful dialogue that will lead to an overall lasting settlement, in accordance with pertinent UN Resolutions and international human rights.

Furthermore, our parliaments should foster national and international measures designed to promote the concept of a peace culture, volunteerism, combating all forms of violence and terrorism, and making accessible education for all. Along these guidelines, we should actively seek to reduce the trade in weapons, even small arms, eliminate trade in drugs, combat poverty, corruption and environmental degradation. The Post – 2015 Development Agenda, adopted last year by the UN General Assembly should be placed at the centre of our efforts. Needless to stress that parliaments have a critical part to play in ensuring the implementation of this agenda, through the passing of laws, adoption of appropriate budgeting and through government scrutiny to account in implementing the commitments they have made while ensuring the efficient use of limited resources.
Dear Colleagues,

In today’s globalised, inter-connected world, every single one of our actions and decisions has a direct or indirect impact on millions of people. Through our presence here today and the resolutions we adopt, we send out a clear message: it is only through dialogue and coordinated actions that we can resolve conflicts and bring about stability, prosperity and hence sustainable development in Asia.

Thank you kindly for your attention.

CS/LM
Esteemed Chairperson,

Dear colleagues,

We live in an interconnected yet constantly changing global environment. The complexity of challenges and threats faced by countries in today’s world deems essential the need for collective action. Issues of common concern that range from dealing with the effects of climate change to fostering sustainable development and from working for the elimination of poverty to combatting terrorism and promoting safety and security, issues that cannot be dealt with individually. The Asian continent is rich in resources and has a vast economic potential that through (concerted) collective action can be harnessed wisely for the benefit of its people.

Strengthening regional cooperation is a crucial step in efforts to further enhance the development of Asian economies. Improved governance and a focus on greater access and inclusion within the economies, with sustainable development placed at the heart of policy planning, can lead the economy and people of Asia to progress and prosperity, while minimizing collateral costs.

The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development provides an ideal starting point through which we can coordinate our actions so as to achieve the much sought after goal of peace, security and prosperity for the people of Asia. The (2030) Agenda, places a strong focus on working for peaceful, just and inclusive societies and directly acknowledges on a global level, the direct link between peace and sustainable development. Goal 16 of the UN Sustainable Development Goals adopted last year, clearly addresses this link as it proclaims the need to "promote peaceful and inclusive societies for sustainable development, provide access to justice for all and build effective, accountable and inclusive institutions at all levels".

The message must be clearly read by all of us. We have a duty as legislators to work for the promotion of policies that consolidate the above goal. We must ensure through our legislative and scrutinizing functions that our systems of government are based on sound institutional structures that ensure the fair administration of justice and respect of the rule of law. In these efforts the involvement of citizens is of the utmost importance. We should adopt a bottom-up approach whereby the people are given a voice in the decision-making processes that affect them. We should reach out to the people and nurture partnerships and cooperation between government and civil society, as it is imperative that local communities are engaged and actively involved in all processes.

Honourable colleagues,

In our efforts towards furthering interaction and enhancing collaboration, parliamentary diplomacy is of the utmost importance, as it makes it easier to draw from common experiences and challenges to foster necessary transformative policies and action. At the same time it is important to keep in mind the enriching diversity that characterizes Asia. In the implementation of the 2030 Agenda, we must take into consideration our individual complexities and particular needs and capacities. The aim should not be to enforce a blanket approach.

As we work together to set out a plan of action towards enhancing regional integration, our goal should be to harmonize efforts and adopt a common stance on the issues that affect all of us. This would indeed be a tangible first step in the right direction.

Thank you kindly for your attention.

Speech by the Head of Delegation from DRP Korea

Mr. President

I believe the agenda of this Assembly correctly reflects the requirement of current reality where Asia is considered to be a continent with greatest potential for development, and yet the most volatile region of the world.

Peace and development are an aspiration of humanity, however, they fail to become the trend of the times due to the competition between the world powers for domination.

In particular, the arms build-up by the United States pursuant to its pivot to Asia-Pacific Strategy and its interference give rise to and intensify confrontation and dispute in many parts of Asia that result in ceaseless armed conflict.

The armed conflicts in countries such as Syria, Yemen and Iraq and the one between Palestine and Israel constitute urgent and pressing issues and, without addressing them, we cannot think of prosperity and development of Asia.

The great peoples of Asia with long-history and brilliant tradition and culture have made substantial contribution to the development of human civilization and are capable of hewing out their destiny without any assistance from the western powers.

It has always been the consistent stand of the government of the DPR Korea that Asia belongs to the Asian peoples and we should resolve disputes and conflicts in the region in a peaceful way through talks and negotiations among state parties, not relying on outside forces.

It has also urged to thoroughly reject the interference of outside forces that instigate mistrust and discord between the conflicting countries and nations.

The government of the DPR Korea holds that it is important for Asian countries to build up their own strength and to consolidate unity and cooperation to oppose aggression and war moves made by the imperialists under the signboard of promoting “democracy” and “anti-terrorism”, and takes this opportunity to extend support and solidarity to the peoples of Syria and Palestine fighting for the righteous cause for independence and territorial integrity.

Ensuring peace and stability in the Korean peninsula is of great significance in maintaining peace and achieving sustainable development in Asia.

If peace and stability are destroyed in the Korean peninsula which stands as the eastern gate to the Asian continent, the grave consequence will impact the whole Asian continent.
Peace is more precious than anything else for the DPR Korea which desires to build a powerful socialist country that guarantees eternal prosperity and happy life of the people with nothing to envy in the world as planned and put forward by the 7th Congress of the Workers’ Party of Korea.

The DPRK takes peace as a prerequisite for the accomplishment of its Five-Year Strategy for National Economic Development which is aimed at laying the foundations for the sustainable development of the country's economy by reenergizing the overall national economy.

However, what we are witnessing in the Korean peninsula is the reckless and extremely dangerous joint military exercises conducted by the U.S. mobilizing all kinds of nuclear strike means and openly clamoring about the “removal of leadership” and “system collapse” of the DPR Korea.

The DPR Korea and the U.S. are technically in the state of war and nuclear forces stand in acute confrontation in the Korean peninsula. The escalation of tension in this part of the world will only lead to a nuclear war and the current situation is only inches away from the worst.

The nuclear holocaust in Hiroshima and Nagasaki is not history anymore.

The government of the DPR Korea, based on its mission of guarding the forefront of defending peace of Asia, has put forward several proposals to bring durable peace to the Korean peninsula and the region including the proposal for concluding a peace treaty, proposal for withdrawal of U.S. troops stationed in south Korea and the proposal for reunifying the country in federal formula, and made great efforts for their realization.

A resolution on withdrawing all foreign troops from south Korea and concluding a peace treaty between the DPR Korea and the U.S. was adopted at the 30th session of the United Nations General Assembly in 1975. This is an expression of the support and sympathy of the international community towards the DPRK’s proposals.

However, the U.S. doggedly ignores the DPRK’s peace-oriented proposals and seriously threatens its sovereignty and right to existence and development by imposing unprecedented nuclear threat and “toughest sanctions and pressure” on it. This is because the strategic interests of the U.S. lie in continued tension in the Korean peninsula, not peace and sustainable development.

The U.S. has made an issue of the DPRK’s peaceful launch of satellite as well as its strengthening of self-defensive deterrence at the United Nations. This is such an unjust illegal act as the offender filing a suit against the victim.

No article or provision of the UN Charter defines nuclear test and launch of satellite as a threat to international peace and stability.
Responding to the threat from the enemy with self-defense is a legitimate right of a sovereign state stipulated in the UN Charter.

Nothing can justify the frenzied moves of the U.S. and its followers to fabricate another UN “resolution on sanctions” against the DPRK aimed at blocking its channel of export and import which is directly related to the livelihood of its people.

The harder the U.S. tries to isolate and stifle the DPRK, the stronger the determination of our army and people will become to stay loyal to the Songun politics and implement the line of simultaneously developing national economy and nuclear forces at a maximum pace.

The U.S. may try all kinds of threat, economic sanctions and “human rights” racket against the DPR Korea, but they will never be able to check the advance of its people towards the building of an invincible socialist power.

There is a saying in the east that the predecessor’s failure serves as the successor’s lesson.

The new administration of the U.S. should learn a lesson from the failed hostile policy of the Obama administration towards the DPR Korea and act with discretion. They should face up to the trend of the times and the strategic position of the DPRK which has emerged as a nuclear weapons state and take a major decision to switch its policy.

Convinced that the replacement of Armistice Agreement with a peace treaty and the withdrawal of aggressive troops from south Korea are a substantive way of contributing to peace and prosperity in the Korean peninsula and Asia, the government of the DPR Korea commits itself to all sincere efforts for their realization.

I take this opportunity to appreciate APA member states for their understanding and support towards the people of the DPR Korea in the efforts to safeguard peace and stability in the Korean peninsula and realize the independent and peaceful reunification of the country. I also hereby reaffirm the stand of the DPR Korea to closely cooperate with Asian countries to make substantial contribution to peace and development of Asia in the future as well.

Thank you

General Debate of the Plenary Session
29 November 2016

STATEMENT
BY THE DELEGATION OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE REPUBLIC OF INDONESIA,
HON. DAVE FIKARNO

Mr. President;
Excellencies;
Distinguished Guests;
Ladies and Gentlemen,

Assalaamu'alaikum Wr. Wb.

First of all, please allow me to extend our utmost appreciation to the Parliaments of the Kingdom of Cambodia's particularly to the organizing committee for excellent deliverance of this meeting and for the warm hospitality and generosity extended to me and my delegation since our arrival here. It is an honor and privilege for me to be here, among you, Asia's countries prominent figures in the 9th Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly (APA) held in this beautiful and majestic city of Siem Reap, the Kingdom of Cambodia.

Since APA last inception in 2006, Indonesia sees the importance of our engagement in APA. It is a forum of sharing and exchanging, inter alia, information, best practices, constructive thoughts in politics, economic, social and also cultural amongst Parliamentarians in Asian in addressing our common present and future challenges, based on the principles enshrined in the APA Chapter of national authority, sovereignty, peaceful co-existence and not-interfere in internal affairs.

As legislators of our respective peoples, all of us represent the shared aspirations of them: the desire to live peaceful and prosperous, as well as the freedom to maximize their prospective potentials as individuals and as citizens of our countries.

Mr. President

Distinguished Delegates,

No country is immune to radicalism and terrorism.

The attack in Pakistan and the act of terror in Jakarta early this year, as well as other hostilities events in other regions highlight the security problems we are facing today. What happened were clear examples that the threat of terrorism is present and that no country can be immune and safe from this peril. A peaceful and stable Asia and Pacific are in our dire need to make us thrive and develop for the sake of our children and the future generation.

It is without a doubt that legislative roles are both important and decisive, and affect wide-range of public life across Asia and Pacific. As Asian Parliamentarians, our people need our heartfelt efforts in providing sufficient legal instruments that aim to ensuring peace and stability in Asia.

The Asia and Pacific need collective effort to address radicalism and terrorism both domestically and in the regional level. The key to a peaceful and stable Asia is good relations among us through constructive dialog, encourage pluralism and avoid trust devisit, with the principles of high respect to territorial integrity and sovereignty.

Mr. President

Ladies and Gentlemen,
As the world third biggest democracy and largest moslem population, Indonesia stands ready to be the driving force for peace. In maintaining peace, emerging countries should play a greater role in ensuring peace and sustainable prosperity. We should also respect rule of laws. Asian should manage conflicts i.e. the South China Sea and the Korean Peninsula amicably. Lastly, we have to ensure that Asia will never be the arena for power struggles of big countries.

Mr. President

Ladies and Gentlemen,

Peaceful circumstances in the region are indispensable for ensuring sustainable development.

Allow me to draw your attention that the Parliament of Indonesia strongly welcomes the adoption by the UN document of Transforming our World: the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, with the objective to promote efforts to end poverty, tackling inequality, encourage human rights and give attention to the linkages between social and economic progress and environmental protection.

I would like to point out that, the UN Document recognizes the role of parliaments in Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) implementation through legislation, budgeting and oversight functions, as well as global engagement for action and the national review process.

APA countries commitment to a strong and resilient economic growth is relevant to the 2030 Agenda. In this context, APA member countries should be able to create an conducive economic environment and inclusive global growth, through: (i) increasing market access to developing countries; (ii) establishing an international tax system that is fair and transparent; and (iii) better management of irregular financial flow; and (iv) encourage the development of infrastructure.
Mr. President

Ladies and Gentlemen,

The Parliament of Indonesia has established a Task Force comprising of various political backgrounds. The main tasks are to intensively raise awareness among parliamentarians and committees in particularly, to foster cooperation with the executive and civil society organizations (CSOs), and also to familiarize the issue to grassroots communities.

Currently, Indonesia is pursuing to integrate SDGs into our national and provincial development plans, through among others: (i) Involving private sector, Civil Society Organization, and philanthropic organization/foundation (ii) establish various domestic policies to ensure food security, access to education and health services; and (iii) increasing South-South Triangular Cooperation (KSST).

Mr. President

Ladies and Gentlemen,

To conclude, I remain convinced that all potential obstructions can be resolved amicably through comprehensive dialogue and mutual trust building, particularly through the APA. I am confident that the Asian nations will be able to effectively manage any obstructions by strengthening our collective capacity and political will to pursue the shared vision of a peace, politically stable of Asian region.

I believe that our cooperation in the region will result a fruitful deliberation and meaningful outcome as we expect.

I thank you.
Speech by the Head of Delegation from Iran

Statement by Honorable Mrs. Dr. Syedeh Fatemeh Zoolghadr
Head of Parliamentary Delegation
Of the Islamic Republic of Iran
At the 9th Plenary Session of Asian Parliamentary Assembly
(27 November- 2 December 2006, Siem Reap)

In the Name of the God, the Compassionate, the Merciful

Your Excellency Mr. Heng Samrin,
Honorable President of the National Assembly of Kingdom of Cambodia, Honorable Parliament Speakers,
Distinguished Colleagues
Ladies and Gentlemen,

A good greeting to all of you.
At the outset, I would like to express my pleasure for being here among my colleagues from various Asian Parliaments.

I want to sincerely thank the good people, the government and the parliament of Cambodia for hosting the session and their warm hospitality.

I take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to His Excellency Heng Samrin, the Honorable President of Cambodian Parliament for his noble chairmanship over APA and also excellent arrangement and chairing this session.

I am equally grateful to His Excellency Nejhad Hoseinian, former Secretary General of APA and I am confident that His Excellency Dr. Mohammad Reza
Majidi, the new Secretary General will be successful in accomplishing his tasks, due to his shining academic and diplomatic experiences and background.

Distinguished Colleagues,
Our session is held at a time that the ancient Asian continent is facing political and security challenges as well as various other difficulties regarding sustainable development.

Therefore, 'Promoting Peace and Sustainable Development in Asia' is a very suitable theme for this session and our discussion on such a subject, will be beneficial for all of us.

It goes without saying that peace and sustainable development are interrelated to each other and if one is missing, the other one will be negatively affected.

There won't be a favorable ground for sustainable development, if there is no peace and stability. And lack of development and progress will lead to instability and insecurity in many aspects of life and society.

Currently, Asia and the entire parts of the world are facing a lot of political, security and economic challenges and problems. Palestinian crisis is going on for more than 7 decades, and still Palestinians are deprived from their most basic and legitimate rights.
At the same time, crisis and tension is going on in Syria, Iraq, Afghanistan, Yemen and some other parts of Asia. As the result of this crisis, heavy material and human casualties have inflicted on nations. Thousands of innocent people were killed or injured and several millions of people become homeless.
Social and economic infrastructure of crisis afflicted areas is also destroyed. In fact the condition is so bad that the people who live in these areas are in dire need of humanitarian assistances.

Continuation of current situation will pose a more serious danger to peace and security, and as a result all chances for reaching a sustainable development will be destroyed.

Negative consequences of tension, insecurity, lack of development and progress, may not be limited to political borders of afflicted countries and the destructive consequences of such a situation will overflow to neighboring countries and nearby regions and eventually to the whole world,

Mr. Chairman,
In order to address the situation, we need to have a correct understanding of the nature and the roots of the crisis and also have a clear image about the dimensions of the problem and its consequences.

Interference of foreign powers in domestic affairs of other countries may be the most important factor and reason for creation and continuation of such crisis.
Political and military interference of big powers, namely the United States in different regions and countries, are clear examples that show real roots and causes for a lot of challenges in the sensitive region of the Middle East.
Emergence and expansion of extremist and terrorist groups such as ISIS is only one of the results of policy of interference.
It is very clear that the United States or other powers resort to lame excuses of fighting against terrorism, prevention of weapons of mass destruction or promoting democracy in order to justify their military and non-military interferences.
In fact we see their peaceful gestures are in complete contradiction with their actions and they fully dis-respect and violate the most basic international laws, such as national sovereignty and territorial integrity of other countries. There is no need to tell you about United States silence over crimes committed by the Zionist regime against innocent Palestinians and its policy of double standard in combating terrorism.

In addition to foreign intervention and the unfair system in the international relations, there are other factors that create instability and insecurity. As some of examples, I can refer to:

- Weak political and economic infrastructure,
- Lack of constructive interaction and constant dialogue among conflicting sides,
- Lack of various common and collective mechanisms in different political, economic and security areas between regional countries in hot spots and
- Expansionist policies of certain countries.

Foreign powers try to abuse any differences or misunderstandings among countries and use provocative claims, in order to maintain their political influences and at the same time pave the way for their massive military presence and also continued interference in the foreign relations of other countries.

Dear Colleagues,

So far, a lot of efforts have been done at the global level, all aimed at materialization of sustainable developments and many ideas and plans such as millennium development goals and Agenda 2030 have been approved by the United Nations. Despite all of these efforts, there is still a long way to go.

Materialization of sustainable development requires peace and stability. And peace and stability requires correction of wrong policies and practices, promotion of constructive dialogue among all countries ans resorting to peaceful ways in order to settle the disputes.

In reality materialization of peace, security and stability are necessary requirements but they are not enough. Therefore, it is necessary for all countries to take effective measures at national and international level.

At national level, countries must have a practical, comprehensive plan and strategy for economic, social and political development based on their own national needs and objectives. At the foreign level, bilateral and multi-lateral relations and cooperation among countries should increase.

As far as political and economic matters are concerned, Asia, as a continent has got great potentialities and if such capacities are used through good political will and an enhanced cooperation among nations, not only it is possible for Asian countries to settle their differences and overcome challenges by themselves, but also Asia, will have a position globally and as the result, international peace, security and development will be increased.

It is necessary for Asian countries to take extensive measures at national and foreign level and in this regard, Asian parliaments can play a key role in approving national plans and regulations as well as promoting bilateral and multilateral cooperation.

We think that based on 5 objectives that are enshrined in our charter; APA is a good basis for promotion of cooperation and constructive interaction among member countries.

In Article 2 and 3 of APA charter, there is an emphasis on increased cooperation among member countries in various areas, including the use of available huge natural and human resources, with the aim to bring about further progress for Asian countries.

In addition to strengthening of the existing political, economic and security mechanisms in Asia, we can think about new ideas, such as creation of a common economic and trade market among Asian countries. This is another area that our parliaments can play an important role by unifying the relevant rules and regulations for the smooth implementation of our common plans.

Mr. Chairman,
Distinguished colleagues,

On behalf of the parliament of the Islamic Republic of Iran, I am here to announce our full readiness to have an active and constructive cooperation with our colleagues in other parliaments in Asia in collective effort to find solution for problems and overcome the existing challenges and realization of the goals and objectives of the APA Charter.

I would like to make this point very clear that APA is a good framework for having such cooperation.

I am confident that H.E. Dr. Majidi, the new Secretary General of APA, and his good colleagues at the secretariat will fulfill their duties based on the given guidelines and regulations, and also by consultation with all member countries.

They can play an important role in achieving the objectives of APA by making necessary coordination among member countries and come up with new ideas for an enhanced cooperation.

I would like to conclude by expressing my hope that the deliberation and discussion of this session will be effective step in promotion of cooperation and further interaction among Asian countries in various political, economic and social eras.

Thank you and God bless you all.

Speech by the Head of Delegation from Jordan - 1

The Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan Statement
Honorable chief, honorable delegates

First of all, please allow me to thank the Kingdom of Cambodia for its warm hospitality, especially the Cambodian parliament for its generous invitation to attend this meeting in order to contribute providing visions and ideas that we all hope that will play great roles in enhancing cooperation between our Asian parliaments in all fields, especially those related to upholding peace and reconciliation frameworks, adoption of dialogue, and refute of extremist political inside our Asian parliamentary community.

Ladies and gentlemen,

The Asian continent has been playing positive roles within human civilization, not only in the regional level, but also in the global one. On the Asian soil, many civilizations have been existed and enlightened all the world, like the ancient Iraq civilization, Indian, Chinese and Islamic ones. On the soil of Asia, prophets have been sent and divine messages have been delivered to all human kind.

From another hand, the strategic location of Asia was one of the most important causes of international focus on Asia. Many economic powers in Asia, like China, Turkey, Singapore, Japan, Malaysia, South Korea, India, and Gulf States, increased such focus. Asia is considered to be strategic reservoir of many natural resources, especially oil. Such natural wealth has made of Asia an object of foreign colonialism and exploitation that has many social, political, cultural and economic agendas toward Asia. Those agendas were not in accordance with Asian nations' interests. Those foreign exploitative agendas turned many areas of Asia into hot spots of tensions, even the hottest spots all over the world.

Ladies and Gentlemen,

Terrorism has no special religion; it is a complex phenomenon. All parliaments in Asia should encounter terrorism and condemn ethnic and sectarian extremism. Parliamentary cooperation is of the principle means in the context of upholding peace and security sphere in Asian region.

Ladies and Gentlemen,

In Jordan, His Majesty King Abdullah The Second, may God protect Him; has a strong commitment to encounter terrorism and upholding peaceful spheres in the region and all over the world. Based on His Majesty commitment, Jordan has become a center of international peace and security upholding in the region and in the world. In this context, Jordan is committed to spread culture of peace, a culture that refuses and resists terrorism and extremist thought. The Message of Amman, which was launched in the 19th of November 2004, has the purpose of explaining the real enlightening mission of Islam. Amman message has stressed that terrorism is not attached determinately to any religion, and that it is pure prejudice to attach or to connect terrorism to Islam.
Amman message confirms that Islam is based on values of balance, justice, acceptance of the Other, co-existence among nations, and deep respect to the holiness of human lives. Amman message has articulated a national framework to both the executive and legislative bodies in Jordan. Based on Amman message, the modern national work of encountering terrorism and extremism has been launched and sustained in Jordan.

Regarding the governmental apparatus, the successive Jordanian governments have been committing themselves to join the international and regional conventions, to implement the international decisions issued by the Security Council in this regard, also ratified many international conventions and treaties in this context, among them:

1) The Arab Convention on Terrorism Combating of 1998,
2) The Islamic Convention on Terrorism Combating of 2000
3) The Arab Convention of Money Laundry and Terrorism Financing of 2012,
4) The International Convention on Combating Terrorism Financing of 2003,
5) The International Convention on Combating Nuclear Terrorism Acts of 2015,
6) The International Convention on Criminal Acts Committed On Air Crafts of 1963,
7) The International Convention on Suppression of Unlawful Seizure of Aircrafts of 1970,
8) The International Convention on Suppression of Unlawful Acts Toward the Safety of Civil Aviation of 1971,

The successive Jordanian governments have been proving their commitments to apply series of practical procedures in order to combating terrorism, in corporation with many of friends and with the Interpol, based on the principle of common interests. Many national institutions have been established to combating terrorism and extremism, like the national committee for combating money laundry and terrorism financing. The purpose of such establishment was to find out effective plans to combating terrorism by drying its headwaters and financial resources.

Regarding contributions of Jordanian legislative body in combating terrorism, represented by the Council of Jordanian People, it has issued many laws that combat and fight terrorism in all forms, direct and indirect. Among those laws were the law of terrorism prevention, law of money laundry and terrorism financing, the Jordanian Penal Law and the Jordanian Tariff Law.

We have adopted an integrated approach, where our main purpose was not to kill terrorists but to defeat their methods of thought and attitude, in other words, to defeat the culture of terrorism. That integrated approach was the main cause behind our democracy continuous victory and terrorism annihilating loss in Jordan.

Ladies and Gentlemen, political development presents common interest among majority of countries that aim to adopt democratic model into their political structure. That adoption demands serious political will from governments and parliaments as well, in order to uphold public participation in making decisions that affect public affairs. Being aware of that, parliaments should cooperate with their national governments to enhance, develop and improve political participation patterns. In this regard, examples of Singapore and Japan constitute successful models that should be learnt.

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen,

Regarding the Israeli-Arab conflict, the Kingdom of Jordan, thanks to its wise leadership of King Abdullah, The Second, continues to play a central role in upholding peace talks between Palestinians and Israelis, in order to realize stability and security in the Middle East region, to realize an eternal and just peace, based on the principle of Land-for-Peace and the solution of the Two States. The King Abdullah, The Second, always asserts and calls for the necessity of restarting negotiations between the two sides, works to stop Israeli escalating aggressions and to put the Road Map into action. The Road Map implies establishment of an independent Palestinian state beside the state of Israel, in order to upholding chances of peace and stability in the region.

Jordan has never given up to realize its humanistic responsibilities and duties to accept and protect victims of wars and terrorism attacks. Jordan was a principle refuge to our brothers and sisters from Palestine, Iraq and Syria. The number of Syrian refugees today in Jordan is estimated to be 1 million 4 hundred thousands, whereas the Iraqis are about 29 thousands. In addition, there are a lot of Yemeni and Libyans refugees on the soil of Jordan. Jordan continues to host such numerous numbers of refugees, although it put heavy pressures on Jordanian limited resources of infrastructure, education, health, transportation, ... etc.

Thank you very much, peace to be upon all of you

Speech by H.E. Pany Yathotou
President of the National Assembly of the Lao PDR
at the 9th Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly
"PROMOTING PEACE AND SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT IN ASIA"
Siem Reap, Kingdom of Cambodia

- Samdech Akka Moha Ponhea Chakrei HENG Samrin, President of the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia and President of the APA,
- Speakers, Heads of Delegation, Honourable Members of Parliament of the APA Member Parliaments, Secretary-General of APA,
- Distinguished Guests, Ladies and Gentlemen,

On behalf of the National Assembly of the Lao PDR, I would like to express my deep appreciation to the President of the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia and APA President for inviting the delegation of the Lao National Assembly and for the warm welcome extended to us during our participation in this 9th Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly, which is being held here in Siem Reap Province, the land of ancient cultural wonders, and world heritage. I also wish to express my congratulations to the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia for the excellent arrangements made for the effective inaugural of this Meeting today. I would like to take this opportunity to also extend my congratulations on the successful convening of the 9th Cambodia-Laos-Viet Nam (CLV) Development Triangle Area Summit hosted by the Government of the Kingdom of Cambodia here in Siem Reap Province last week.

Mr. President,
Honorable Members of Parliaments,

The Asian Parliamentary Assembly (APA) is an important forum for consultation among parliaments of Asia on regional and international political, economic, and socio-cultural issues of common interest and concern with the aim of building an Asian continent that is politically stable and economically resilient, thereby contributing to the promotion of peace, cooperation and sustainable development.
In the spirit of these objectives, the 9th Plenary Session of the APA has chosen the topic: “Promoting Peace and Sustainable Development in Asia”, which is very relevant and in line with the current needs of each country, the region and the world at large.

Mr. President,

Peace and development are both our goals and common aspirations of all mankind including the people in our Asian continent. However, the current regional and international environment continues to be confronted with various challenges. To name a few, terrorism and extremism remain a threat to regional and global peace and security. More than 800 million people across the world still live in extreme poverty, while epidemics, natural disasters and climate change have caused tremendous damage to social and economic development of various parts of the world. At the same time, the global economy is still fragile and growing at a slow pace.

Against this backdrop, the international community has, over the past years, made collective efforts to respond to and address those challenges on the basis of continuing to uphold the fundamental principles of the United Nations in addressing various issues of the region and the world through peaceful means, and by adopting various policies, measures and mechanisms within both bilateral and multilateral frameworks in order to work together to address, among others, the issues of climate change and natural disasters, which are a major hindrance to development and a risk to life and property of the people in the region, and no single country can handle the problem on its own. Recognizing the importance of this issue, the Lao PDR formally joined the Paris Agreement on Climate Change, and the National Assembly has ratified the said the Paris Agreement. Moreover, the Lao Government has submitted its Nationally Determined Contributions and integrated climate change, natural disaster risk reduction and management into its National Socio-Economic Development Plan, and this is being implemented through annual work plans and projects of the different sectors and local authorities.
Mr. President,
Ladies and Gentlemen,

2016 is the first year of the implementation of the 2030 Agenda for sustainable development, including the Sustainable Development Goals as set out by the United Nations. It is my view, therefore, that we need to deepen our understanding of the SDGs at the national, regional and international levels in order to integrate these goals into our respective national development plans, and to mobilize sufficient resources for the effective implementation of this Agenda.

Early this year, the Lao PDR held an election of the 8th Legislature of the National Assembly which subsequently approved, at its inaugural session, the Vision 2030, the 10-year Development Strategy (2016-2025) and the 8th Five-Year National Socio-Economic Development Plan (2016-2020), which include the goals of green growth and sustainable development, maintaining steady economic growth, achieving continuous reduction of poverty and graduating from the least developed country status, among others. In addition to the implementation of the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) over the past 5 years, the Lao PDR has implemented the Sustainable Development Goals, and has also adopted its national SDG 18: “Lives Safe from UXO”, which was formally launched by the Prime Minister of the Lao PDR and the United Nations Secretary General Ban Ki-moon on 7 September 2016 in Vientiane. The objective of this particular SDG is to ensure clearance of unexploded ordnance (UXO) contamination, reduction in casualties from UXO accidents and assistance to UXO survivors and victims to the highest extent possible. Moreover, as a landlocked country, the Lao PDR attaches great importance to being a good partner in effectively implementing the Master Plan on ASEAN Connectivity. We very much hope that we will receive full support and assistance from our friendly countries in this endeavour.

As representatives of the rights and benefits of the people, the National Assembly of the Lao PDR has over the years considered and approved laws and policies that directly promote sustainable development in line with green growth as well as played the role of encouraging and monitoring of the implementation of laws, work plans and projects that have been approved towards concrete results and real benefit for the people.
The Asian Parliamentary Assembly as representative of the people, has the important task of promoting peace, solidarity, and cooperation among members of the international community with the aim of developing peace and stability, and creating conditions that are conducive to sustainable socio-economic development for the region and the world as a whole.

It is my high hope that under the able leadership of Samdech President of APA and through contributions from APA Member Parliaments, we will be able to achieve our set objectives, thereby contributing to the maintenance and promotion of peace, stability, cooperation and sustainable development in the region and the world, and toward real benefit for the people in our Asian region.

Finally, I would like to extend my best wishes to the Bureau of our Plenary Session, Members of Parliament, and all distinguished guests attending this Meeting for good health and happiness, and I wish this Meeting great success.

Thank you.
Speech by the Head of Delegation from Lebanon

I would like at first to thank the Cambodian King, Government and Council for their efforts to arrange this Conference, as I would like to express the Lebanese parliament’s joy with the holding of the 9th Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly in Cambodia in this Stressful moments for the whole world and especially for some of our Asian countries particularly with the escalation of tensions and unrest in several countries and with the increasing violence and destruction and global Takfiri terrorism striking ruthlessly everywhere. This terrorism therefore is threatening the whole world, our Asian countries in particular.

Our region has witnessed lately several attempts to destabilize a number of active states in the region’s system. We are living the neighboring crises, monitoring its evolution, and would like to congratulate the Iraqi state for its victories against the Takfiri terrorism as it continues to liberate the rest of the Iraqi territories from the terrorist’s rule.

As for Syria and Yemen, we call for political solutions and for the cease of war in both countries while we emphasize the need to fight the Takfiri terrorism.

We in Lebanon have accomplished the basic constitutional entitlement of electing a new president and are currently working on forming a new government which seeks to hold new parliamentary elections next spring.

Ladies and Gentlemen,

I call upon you to support Lebanon’s stability and to support it economically as it faces the crisis of a huge number of Syrian and Palestinian refugees almost equivalent to half the number of its own citizens which demands more health, educational, environmental, and energy services in addition to establishing an appropriate infrastructure due to the enormous increase of the number of people exceeding the current Lebanese infrastructure.
Dear Colleagues,

We draw your attention that Israel still occupies many parts of our land, conducts maneuvers, deploys weapons systems and threatens our country. And we choose to resist and conjoin the efforts of the Army, People, and the Resistance to protect our country from the Israeli threats as well as from the Takfiri terrorism on our eastern borders.

Therefore, we call upon your Esteemed Conference to:

1- Condemn the continued Israeli occupation of parts of our land and the continued Israeli violations of our sovereign borders and the sanctity of our airspace and territorial waters.

2- Support Lebanon in order to face the challenge of the huge number of refugees on its land through helping us get economical and financial aid in the international parliamentary and governmental forums to confront the Syrian refugee’s crisis.

I and the name of the Lebanese Parliament assure our stance beside the Asian Countries.

We all must unite our efforts and potentials to stop the small wars and reconstruct countries.

We should also focus on the Palestinian cause and support the struggle of the Palestinian people to achieve their wish to return to their homeland, decide their own fate, and to establish their independent state with Jerusalem as its capital.

In the end, we call upon the whole world to unite in order to confront the Takfiri terrorism which has become an enemy of humanity as a whole.

Thank you for your hospitality,

Prayers for the successes of your conference,

Salam Alaykom

A Statement by the Head of the Palestinian Delegation, by Mr. Zuhayr Sanduqah

In the occasion of the 9th Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly

Siem Reap, Kingdom of Cambodia

28/11 – 2/12/2016

Before I give the speech on behalf of the Palestinian delegation, allow me to remind you that today, 29th of November is the International Day of Solidarity with Palestinian People. So, if you believe that the endurance of Palestinians against occupation, its adherence to its national steady rights and its resistance against fascism and racism; if you believe that all of that deserve your appreciation by giving applause as you stand up, so I do extend my deep thanks to all of you.

Dear Mr. Chair, Dear Fellows,

First of all, allow me in the name of the Palestinian delegation to extend my thanks to our friends in Kingdom of Cambodia, the King, the government, the parliament and the people of Cambodia for their warm reception and generous hospitality and well organized meeting.

The selection of ‘promoting peace and sustainable development in Asia’ as a main discussion topic in the plenary session today is a very well suited selection, because it is not only suit for the Asian peoples in this moment of history, but to the peoples of all humanity.

The topic consists of two concepts, which are synergized together; sustainable development is the basis for building social peace. From the other hand, social peace is a basis for sustainable development.

Human being is the vital base for any effort seeks to attain peace and realize sustainable development. Human resources are considered to be the most invaluable resources. Being aware of such fact, we should reevaluate our education systems and curricula and give more attention to values of justice, equality, tolerance and balanced civil rights.

We should dismiss from our education curricula any ethnic or sectarian biased values and attitudes. To adopt ethnic, skin color, religious, or sectarian biased policies is the most effective prescription to spread antipathy, destruction and massacres. What we have been witnessing in our world today is the clearest evident that proves such statement. For sorrow, there are many indicators that confirm the proliferation of extremist rightest parties and movements in public spheres today, especially in the Western world. Such proliferation alerts us that we may witness in the near future more wars, massacres, hunger, national disintegration, and isolation; all those phenomena are the result of powers and states that have very narrow interests and ideologies, I am sure you can recognize them easily.

From another hand, in order to accomplish a qualitative movement in our education systems, as bases for any human resources development, we should concentrate in providing our schools with modern technologies and electronic education mechanisms, integrating vocation education into all our educational programs, and upholding capabilities needed to face the future challenges.

Mr. Chair, Dear Fellows,

Asia, which has about 60% of world population, is not that Asia of near history. There are much significant advancement that has been achieved in many Asian countries in almost all fields, economic, technology, and knowledge. We can mention here some significant experiences like China, India and Japan, where the progress standards exceed those of many developed countries. Such facts lead us to ask for more cooperation and coordination among Asian countries in all fields, especially economy, science, investment, and communication technologies. In addition, we do urge all Asian countries to do their best in order to end all disputes and conflicts between our Member States based on peaceful mechanisms and international legitimacy.

Mr. Chair, Dear Fellows,

I do believe that I need not to explain in detail that my people are still under foreign occupation; an occupation which is colonial and substitution occupation (dismissing Palestinians and substitute them with Jews). The Israeli occupation started about seven decades ago, which has been making peace and sustainable development out of reach to my people. How can we attain peace with an occupation power that has international impunity backed by the strongest state in the world? Israel today acts as if its unlawful regulations are stronger than international law regulations and ratified conventions. Israel, the foreign occupation in Palestine, continues to commit serious violations against Palestinian people before and after the establishment of Israel. Israel continues to commit awful massacres, destructing hundreds of villages, root out more than half of the Palestinian people from their homeland, launches aggression against people of Gaza, destroying houses over their owners' heads, turning infrastructure, schools, hospitals, and farms into wreckages. Today, our children, women, teenagers, and adults face prisoning, torture, insulting and assassinations, and even burned alive by unlawful settlers' gangs and insane religious extremists.

All those Israeli aggressions are classified as war crimes anti humanity. After explaining that, let me raise a fundamental question: how can we achieve a sustainable development as we live under such tough conditions of siege and frequent closing of cross points? We cannot move freely between our villages and cities. We do miss the geographical integrity of our land due to Jews settlements that stand as military bases there. Not only settlements, but Israel has been fragmenting that integrity by hundreds of bypassing roads and apartheid separating wall. Such conditions have been pushing our societies to live in cantons like those of South Africa in the time of Apartheid Regime, which was a warm friend of Israel.

Mr. Chair, Dear Fellows,

We are in urgent need for your help and support by making pressures on the Israeli occupation, and those who support it, in order to lift injustice and tyranny. We do need your support to attain justice, peace and sustainable development in our region. We do assert to all of you that we will not give up our struggle, we will not go down, we will not allow anybody to insult us or detracting our dignity, no matter how long the conflict, and no matter how great our sacrifices.

Honorable Chair, Honorable Delegates,

At the end of my speech, I would like to give my sincere appreciation to the speech of His Excellency the Cambodian Prime Minister yesterday in the opening session of this conference. Due to the importance and significance of that speech, I do recommend adopting it as one of the formal document of our conference.

Thank you very much for your attention, peace to be upon all of you.
Speech by the Head of Delegation from PUIC – 1

Speech of H.E. Prof. Dr. Mahmud Erol KILIÇ
Secretary General
Of the Parliamentary Union of the OIC Member States (PUIC)
At the
9th APA Plenary Session
Siem-Reap-Kingdom of Cambodia
28 November-1 December, 2016
H.E. Mr. Samdech Moha Ponhea Chakeri HENG Samrin,
President of the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia
And APA President,

Excellencies Speakers of APA Member Parliaments,

H.E. Mr. M.H. Nejad Hosseinian, Prof. Mojtabi
APA Secretary General,

Ladies and Gentlemen,

May peace be upon you.

Allow me to offer my sincere thanks and appreciation for your kind invitation to our PUIC to attend and participate, as an observer, in the 9th APA Session which is being held in Siem Reap, the beautiful Cultural Capital of the friendly Kingdom of Cambodia. We are further pleased that the theme of your discussion and the exchange of views addresses an important matter of concern to all the states of the world, i.e. “Promoting Peace and Sustainable Development in Asia.”

Perhaps promoting peace, or let us say finding peace, in the first place, whose primacy of its realization shall remain an invaluable wish, before being a living reality for the entire humanity. No wonder that the United Nations Organization has identified its primary goal as the realization of world peace and security. If peace is achieved, development shall be easy to attain and realize.

As you know, peace has pillars that ensure its firm establishment and deep-rootedness, the most important of which is justice that is protected by strong institutions which guarantee justice for all. Furthermore, transparency shall flourish as well as accountability by which people shall be equal before the law; no one shall feel injustice or humiliation. Human rights shall thrive and society shall be devoid of animosities and hostilities which lead to social restlessness and the emergence of fanatical instincts which in turn lead to the prevalence of anarchy and devastation.

We, therefore, hail your initiative to promote peace in Asia, and make it the key to achieve sustainable development. As peace is an indivisible whole, its assurance and durability requires that all states, especially neighboring ones, shall also enjoy it. Failure of peace in any part shall threaten the remaining parts. We recognize that the mushrooming of terrorist actions in today's world, without any geographical restrictions or political boundaries for their propagation emphasize that cooperation and coordination among all states to establish the foundations of peace is an obligation. This necessitates thanking you also for the call to realize it in your promising continent.

Mr. President,

Ladies and Gentlemen,

It is needless to recall that peace is a primary necessity for development. We, therefore, maintain that establishing the linkage between the two concepts in your important conference is an indication of a deep understanding and far-sightedness for their need of each other.

In 1983, the UN decided to establish the World Commission on Environment and Development, in which it defined sustainable development as meeting the needs of the present.

The First Conference on Environment and development was held in Rio De Janeiro in 1992. Twenty years later, Rio+ 20 Conference decided the Future We Want. Agreement was reached on Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). In 2015 the UN passed the Agenda of Sustainable Development of 2030, a package of 17 goals, including elimination of poverty and hunger; improving health services and the quality of education, clean water; availability of energy; and justice for all. They also encourage cooperation in the framework of organizations and the international community to energize and achieve these goals.

We may add other objectives of Sustainable Development that have been decided by the Paris meeting on Climate Change in December 2015, and emphasized by the Marrakech Conference in November 2016 that make cooperation among states and continents more obligatory for saving Planet Earth from perils and renders it more compatible for realizing Sustainable Development, namely:

1. Climate Action: to combat climate change and its impacts by regulating emissions and promoting development in renewable energy.

2. Life on Land: protect, restore and promote Sustainable Development by managing forests, combating desertification, halting land degradation, and halting biodiversity loss.

Mr. President,

Ladies and Gentlemen,

Our mutual participation in PUIC-APA Parliamentary events, as well as the exchange of our experiences and researches shall be of help to both of us in promoting and achieving our sublime objectives and satisfying the aspirations and hopes of our peoples in a life blessed with peace and prosperous livelihood.

I wish your conference success and triumph.

Thanking you for your listening
DISCOURS DE S.E. PROF. DR. MAHMUD EROL KILIÇ, SECRETaire GENERAL DE L'UNION PARLEMENTAIRE DES
ETATS MEMBRES DE L'OCl (UPCI) A LA 9e SESSION
PLENIERE DE L'ASSEMBLEE PARLEMENTAIRE ASIATIQUE

SIEM REAP – ROYAUME DE CAMBODGE

28 NOVEMBRE - 1er DECEMBRE 2016
S.E.M. Samdech Moha Ponhea Chakrei HENG,
Président de l'Assemblée Nationale du Royaume de Cambodge, Excellences les Présidents des Parlements membres de l’APA,
S.E.M. Nejad Hosseini, Secrétaire Général de l’APA,
Mesdames et Messieurs

« Que la paix soit sur vous »

Permettez-moi de vous présenter mes sincères remerciements et appréciation pour votre invitation aimable adressée à notre Union pour participer, en tant qu'observateur, à la 9e Session de l’APA qui se tient à Siem-Reap, la belle capitale culturelle du Royaume frère de Cambodge. Nous sommes par ailleurs heureux que vos discussions et échanges de vue se concentrent sur une question importante qui préoccupe tous les Etats du monde à savoir « la promotion de la paix et du développement durable en Asie ».

Il se peut que la promotion de la paix et en premier lieu, la primauté de sa réalisation reste un souhait inestimable avant d’être une réalité de la vie pour l’humanité toute entière. Pas étonnant que l’Organisation des Nations Unies ait fixé comme objectif principal la réalisation de la paix et de la sécurité dans le monde. Si on parvient à la paix, il serait facile d’atteindre et réaliser le développement.

Comme vous le savez, la paix a des piliers qui assurent sa ferme instauration et son enracinement profond dont le plus important est la justice qui sera à son tour protégée par des institutions fortes qui garantissent la justice pour tous. En outres, la transparence et la responsabilité devraient s’épanouir pour permettre au peuple d’être égal devant la loi, personne ne doit sentir l’injustice ou l’humiliation. Les droits humains doivent prospérer et la société doit être dépourvue d’animosité et d’hostilité qui mènent au chaos et, à l’émergence des instincts fanatiques qui a son tour conduit à insécurité et à la prévalence d’anarchie et dévastation.

Nous saluons par ailleurs votre initiative pour promouvoir la paix en Asie, et faire de cette initiative la clé pour atteindre le développement; comme la paix est un ensemble indivisible, son assurance et sa fiabilité requièrent que tous les États, en particulier les États voisins, s'en réjouissent. La défaite pour parvenir à la paix sera une menace pour les autres parties. Nous constatons la prolifération d'actes terroristes dans le monde d'aujourd'hui, sans aucune restriction géographique ou frontières politique à sa propagation, soulignant que la coopération et la coordination de tous les États pour instaurer les fondements de la paix est une obligation. Nous devons vous remercier également pour sa réalisation.

_Monsieur le Président,

Mesdames et Messieurs,

Nul besoin pour rappeler que la paix est une nécessité préalable au développement, nous maintenons par ailleurs que créer un lien entre les deux concepts lors de votre conférence importante est une preuve de votre profonde compréhension et clairvoyance en ce qui concerne le besoin d'un de l'autre.

En 1983, les Nations Unies ont décidé de créer un Commission sur l'Environnement et le Développement par lequel le développement durable est défini comme rencontrer

La première Conférence sur l'Environnement et le développement a eu lieu à Rio de Janeiro, en 1992. Vingt ans après; la Conférence de Rio+20 a décidé du Futur que nous désirons. Un Accord a été conclu sur les objectifs du Développement durable. En 2015 les Nations Unies ont voté pour l'agenda du développement durable de 2030, un lot de 17 objectifs comprenant entre autres, l'élaboration de la pauvreté et de la faim, l'amélioration des services pour la santé et de la qualité de l'éducation, l'eau propre, la disponibilité d'énergie et la justice pour tous. Ils ont également encouragé la coopération dans le cadre des organisations et des communautés internationales pour dynamiser et atteindre ces objectifs.
Nous devons y ajouter d'autres objectifs au développement durable qui rende la coopération entre les États et continents plus compatible pour la réalisation du développement durable, en particulier :

2. Vie sur terre : protéger, restaurer et promouvoir le développement durable par la gestion des forêts, lutter contre la désertification, stopper la dégradation des territoires et la perte de biodiversité.

Monsieur le Président,

Mesdames et Messieurs,

Nos participations mutuelles aux événements de l'UPCI et de l'APA, ainsi que les échanges de nos expériences et recherches nous aideront à promouvoir et atteindre nos objectifs sublimes et à satisfaire les aspirations et les espoirs de nos peuples dans une vie bénie de paix et de moyens de subsistance prospères.

Je souhaite que votre conférence soit couronnée de succès et de triomphes.

Je vous remercie pour m'avoir écouté.

“Promoting Peace and Sustainable Development in Asia”

Siem-Reap, Cambodia, 27 November – 1 December 2016

Your Excellency Mr. Chairman,

Distinguished ladies and gentlemen,

On behalf of the Council of the Federation of the Federal Assembly of the Russian Federation it is my pleasure and privilege to greet the participants of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly 9th Plenary Session.

First of all, let me express our sincere gratitude to the leadership and people of the Kingdom of Cambodia for their warm welcome and brilliant organization of our Assembly.

Developing cooperation with Asian countries on a wide range of matters both in a bilateral and multilateral formats, as well as inclusion into regional integration are among the top priorities of Russian foreign policy.

Global environment is becoming more and more complicated, challenges to security and stability are getting more dramatic and multidimensional. Relations between countries have accumulated a lot of controversies. The epoch of unipolar world is irrevocably becoming a thing of the past. A new balance of powers is being built on the backdrop of enhanced competition (regrettably, often unfair and aggressive), emulation of values, new hotbeds of conflicts and deepening dividing lines. All this entails instability in global processes at all the levels.

Strive of certain countries to “preempt” a “right to exclusiveness” in global affairs by, among other things, interfering into the internal affairs of other countries infringing therefore on the rule of international law, imposing their own prescriptions of inner transformations on other peoples without considering their traditions or national particularities promotes deteriorating international situation and builds up tension.

ISIS terrorism and expansion is a key challenge to the international stability today. Unless it is neutralized no one will feel safe and secure in the world.

Russia is strongly committed to combatting terrorism in all its forms. We are convinced that alone it is impossible to defeat this evil. President of the Russian Federation V.V. Putin has put forward an initiative to form a large-scale international coalition embracing all stakeholders willing to suppress extremists. These consolidated efforts have to be of a comprehensive, multidimensional, legal and legitimate character. They have to be taken under coordination of the United Nations Security Council. However we would not be able to effectively confront terrorists if we break them down into “modest” and “radical”, “ours” and “theirs”, “good” and “bad” or, furthermore, if we try to manipulate extreme groupings to attain our own political goals.

Special attention should be devoted to neutralizing terrorist fighters, counteracting replenishment of terrorism through illegal drug trafficking, trade of natural resources and cultural heritage items. We are advocating maximum use of multilateral mechanisms at hand to exercise pressure on countries that do not realize legally binding decisions of the UNSC on shutting down channels of financial support to ISIS.

Effective response to current global challenges should be sought in shaping inclusive multilateral mechanisms of security, elaborating uniform "rules of the game" thriving on the principles of equality and indivisibility of security, non-use of force or threat of force, restrain from implementing or supporting any actions aimed at toppling legitimate governments.

I would underscore that Russian approaches are shared by the majority of responsible parties of international interaction.

The logic of "indivisibility" is applied not only to the sphere of security, but also to the global economic space.

We are committed to successful implementation of Agenda 2030 at all the levels. We consider new Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) a powerful consolidating factor that would allow to unite efforts of global community to fight new challenges to development.

I would like to confirm that Russia and APA member parliaments make a common choice of sustainable and systematic development, equitable international dialogue, strengthened global security system, respect to international law and the key role of the UN.

We deem it necessary to fully take into account priorities of nations and their differences capacity-wise. We are against imposing ready-made prescriptions and uniform standards on anybody.

We are promoting a comprehensive and non-politicized approach to the implementation of SDGs. We believe it is counter-productive to "rank" the goals and tasks according to their priority.

A key factor to timely attain SDGs and a paramount element of renewed global partnership in our view is for all parties to realize their political responsibilities in the sphere of financial and technical assistance, including official development assistance (ODA), which remains the main source of foreign finance for many developing countries.

Both a broad international cooperation and respective programs within the countries are necessary to reach these goals.

Russia is ready to remain active vis-a-vis its international obligations.

Guided by the principles of solidarity, our country will continue making a significant contribution to building up economic, intellectual, informational, scientific and technological potential of the partner countries with a view to promote sustainable development.

For this purpose an Interdepartmental Working Group under the Administration of the President of the Russian Federation on Climate Change and Sustainable Development has been established. It incorporates representatives of both houses of parliament, executive authorities, business and academia. The Council of the Federation, for its part, has held parliamentary hearings resulted in specific practical recommendations on how to better implement Agenda 2030 in Russia.

I believe that it is the countries of Asia that are capable of making a decisive contribution to attain the Sustainable Development Goals, to elaborate a fair and forward-looking alternative to the model of a "unipolar world". We are convinced that this alternative will be underpinned by the principles of equality, rule of international law, respect to cultural and civilizational diversity.

All the necessary prerequisites are in place. Asian economy leading globally in growth rates, intensifying regional cooperation and accelerating integration are continuously fostering Asia's strategic position in the global development.
I would like to highlight once again that we see the top priority for parliaments in promoting integration of Sustainable Development Goals into national strategies with due consideration of national particularities and priorities.

Dear colleagues,

Friends,

We are facing common global challenges that are easier to tackle if we join our efforts. Under the current conditions it is crucial to strengthen comprehensive strategic partnership between Asian nations. Therefore, we are interested in closer contacts at international arena and in activating bilateral cooperation. Russia is open for constructive interaction with all the nations with a view to solidify peace on the continent.

For us, parliamentarians, it is absolutely obvious that in the present-day international context, the role of inter-parliamentary interaction is growing. This interaction should become the center of gravity for various political forces to unite elites and to put together rational and comprehensive approaches based on a broad consensus.

We are sure that a multi-stakeholder dialogue of trust between our countries is one of the key elements of effective partnership in promoting peace, stability and development in the region.

In conclusion, I would like to once again express our acknowledgment to the organizers of the 9th Plenary Session of APA and to emphasize that Russia is ready to further actively participate in the processes aimed at ensuring security and sustainable development in the Asian region. Together we can achieve a lot. A key to success is to center our relations on equal and mutually beneficial cooperation, consideration and respect for each other's interests.

Allow me to wish all respected partners fruitful and interesting work in the course of our Assembly.

Thank you for attention!

Draft Intervention

by

Honorable ADM. Amorntep Na Bangchang
Leader of the Thai National Legislative Assembly Delegation
At the 9th Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly
“Promoting Peace and Sustainable Development in Asia”
27th November - 2nd December 2016
Siem Reap, Kingdom of Cambodia

His Excellency Samdech Akka Moha Ponhea Chakrei HENG Samrin,
President of the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia,
President of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly,
Secretary General of the APA,
Distinguished Delegates,
Ladies and Gentlemen,

It is my great pleasure and honor to address this 9th Plenary Session of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly which is being held in Siem Reap, Kingdom of Cambodia. It is also my great honor to be here with all of your honorable. We are touched by the warm hospitality which the host has accorded to us since our arrival in Cambodia. I recognize very well that the ultimate objective of this conference is to find means to encourage for promoting peace and sustainable development which ensures a better world for everyone.

I would like to extend my special thanks to His Excellency Samdech Akka Moha Ponhea Chakrei HENG Samrin, President of the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia for your remarkable role as the Chairperson of this Plenary Session and also express my appreciation to Secretary-General of the APA for his great work to the organization.
Mr. Chairperson,
Honorable Delegates,
Ladies and Gentlemen,

Almost a decade, the APA has set its goals to be one of the inter-parliamentary organizations to make the concretion and solidarity in Asia under the conceptual ideas of peace and security creation. Through many years, we have assembled to share our views and experiences on important subjects for finding the best practice, particularly peace and sustainable development among Asian countries.

Under the world situations, we must face the fact that in many parts of the world still suffer from new forms of wars and conflicts, ethnic or violence, violence against women both in conflict and in daily life. Recently, a terror threat becomes a major issue of our concern.

In order to promote peace and sustainable development to the continent, the inter-parliamentary cooperation plays a vital role in such mission. The APA could serve as a way to further strengthen and become a forum for multilateral and bilateral dialogue and consultation on the establishment of effective principles for dialogue and cooperation, featuring decision-making by consensus, non-interference, incremental progress and moving at a pace comfortable to all member countries. Mutual understanding can be gradually built up by cooperative activities as well as the transparent and sincere parliamentary diplomacy of the relevant parties should be promoted by the members of APA in all aspects. I see the APA forum as an excellent venue for sharing our experience in promoting peace and sustainable development. Furthermore, APA has been a forum where parliamentarians from Asian member states foster their partnership and cooperation to consolidate the positions of Asia in the world as a global player and to contribute parliamentary dimension to achieve the goals of Asia.
Externally, APA has underscored the importance of further deepening and broadening cooperation with our dialogue partners. Thailand shall enhance this external relation and shall encourage support from friends of Asia in fulfilling the goals of the Asian Charter.

Promoting Peace

As a peace-loving nation, Thailand fully supports the concept of promoting peace, which is a long-term process to lay concrete foundation for sustainable political, economic and social development, particularly in post-conflict situations.

As I have mentioned, the way of parliamentary diplomacy for peace and sustainable development has to be constructed under the negotiation and discussion processes carried out according to the procedure in international organizations. And the main objective of parliamentary diplomacy is to increase mutual understanding and to maintain friendship among the Asian countries, as well as, to increase the democratic legitimacy of inter-governmental institutions.

Thailand strongly believes that sustainable peace and development can only be achieved through political will and parliamentary dimension that will lead us to solidarity by way of trust and confidence in Asia. Driven by the objective of security and well-being for the people in Asia, the APA member countries, as the legislative branch, can work closely with each other by exchanging their experiences and point of views on how to promote peace and sustainable development via the channel of parliamentary diplomacy like this forum.

Sustainable Development

To create sustainable development, under the view of that human resources are the key ingredient in the development process, Thailand has therefore supported a people-centred development strategy. Development should be created from within, making maximal use of local resources, both human and natural resources, and ensuring local ownership and strength. Local communities should be empowered, so they could stand on their own feet. Civil society organizations should also be engaged in the process.
Thailand has pledged itself to pursue strong foundations for sustainable development. We believe that democracy and development have a natural link. We have applied the late His Majesty, King Bhumibol’s guiding principles of the philosophy of sufficiency economy for our national economic and development plans for many years. The philosophy of sufficiency economy means that one is not motivated by acquisitiveness but by the desire to live with contentment within one’s, the community’s and the nation’s means. Sufficiency economy will contribute, at the individual level, to one’s wellbeing and, at the local and national level, to sustainable development. It is our aim, to enact laws facilitating and enhancing the capabilities of Thai people to live such lives.

Mr. Chairperson,
Honorable Delegates,
Ladies and Gentlemen,

On behalf of the Thai Delegation, I believe that promoting peace and development processes are overlapping and mutually reinforcing. Development in the political, economic and social tracks should be implemented simultaneously, in order to leverage economic opportunity and create social atmosphere conducive to long-term peace for people, particularly vulnerable groups, such as women, youth and children as well.

While public infrastructure and utilities are being developed, access to services should also be improved, particularly for the marginalized groups. More importantly, the root causes of conflict should be addressed systematically through the equitable development process.

Thailand believes in conflict prevention as a more effective means to ensure sustainable peace. In this regard, a regional monitoring mechanism should be put in place so that action should be taken before any probable conflict would erupt. Politically, in order to promote peace and sustainable, both the government and the parliament must focus on accountability, good governance and promotion of public participation, while at the same time sincerely respect civil and human rights and the rule of law.
In conclusion, on behalf of the Thai Delegation, I affirm that this is the best opportunity for all of the APA Members to carefully and seriously think about how to create our own channel for promoting cooperation in peace and sustainable development. I, therefore encourage all APA members to adhere to the aims and objectives of the APA and also lend support to the efforts of the relevant parties on this issue and to achieve peace and sustainable development in Asia.

Thank you for your kind attention.
Honorable Speakers,
Honorable Secretary-General,
Honorable Members of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly,
Ladies and Gentlemen,

At the outset, allow me to express my pleasure to address you today in the Kingdom of Cambodia. I wish to express our heartfelt appreciation for the Kingdom of Cambodia and the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia for their warm hospitality.

The world is going through a period of major transformation and change whose effects are being deeply felt. One the one hand, several crises threaten global stability in a range of regions from the Middle East to Africa, while on the other hand, several issues such as poverty, unfair distribution of wealth, racism and islamophobia, climate and environmental issues, cross-border terrorism and refugee crisis require solutions.

The wave of transformation that defines the challenges we are faced with is not limited to politics. We are experiencing a period in which new centers of economic activity emerge and the centre of gravity of the global economy is shifting from the West to the East, to Asian economies.

Against this background, I believe that, the APA provides significant contributions to stability, prosperity and development in Asia in its role as the biggest inter-parliamentary organization in Asia. As a significant institution which applies parliamentary diplomacy, an indispensable element of the contemporary world, the APA's work in a wide range of areas including in socio-cultural, political and economic areas is of significance in Asia and beyond.

Dear Guests,

Turkey is located in a region that is a crisis hot spot. The whole world has recently focused on this region. We are also inevitably affected by upheavals taking place in our region and increasing in violence and magnitude every other day.

As the fifth year of the civil war in Syria is coming to an end, we continue to host in Turkey our Syrian brothers and sisters who had no other choice but to leave their homes and homeland. We do so under our policy of open door in a period in which the West is building walls of shame. Turkey currently hosts more than two million seven hundred thousand refugees and according to the figures of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, it is the country hosting the highest number of refugees in the world.
Turkey has received without any hesitation and with open arms its brothers and sisters in their difficult days. This has entailed for us a financial burden of over 25 billion USD including the contributions of humanitarian assistance organizations. We continue to bear, alone, this burden under our humanitarian and international obligations with only a minor contribution of international community.

The acts of terrorist organizations that exploited the ongoing chaos in the region to extend their influence and power have reached a dimension that directly threatens our national security. The terrorist attacks perpetrated in Turkey by DAESH that claimed the lives of hundreds of Turkish citizens show clearly the magnitude of the threat we are facing. To the acts of DAESH, have been recently added PKK’s intensifying cowardly attacks. In this context, we are pressing ahead with extensive operations launched against terrorist groups in Syria and Irak that threaten public order and security of our citizens.

On the other hand, as you know, on 15 July, our democracy in Turkey faced a coup attempt staged by Gülenist Terrorist Organization (FETO).

On that night, terrorists disguised as soldiers departed from barracks and tried to take control of state and media institutions as well as strategic points in city centres including in particular İstanbul and capital city of Ankara and to change the legitimate government. In terms of its magnitude, this was an attempt at invading the country.

These treacherous terrorists who were members of an illegal gang and most of whom were bearing military uniforms attempted to put an end to Turkey’s democratic and legal integrity and to put in place a military junta administration despite the popular will. On that dark night when our democracy faced an attack, unfortunately, 248 Turkish citizens fell martyr and 2,193 were injured.

At those moments when the attacks were continuing full-fletched, our parliamentarians across the board came to the parliament although it was not a working day, and they held a meeting that lasted all night long. While we were in meeting at the Plenary Hall that night, our Parliamentary building was bombed, wounding some parliamentarians and staff members. The next day, upon the the call of the Speaker of the Turkish Parliament for an extraordinary meeting, all the political parties represented in our Parliament convened once again and issued a joint declaration proclaiming to the whole world their commitment to democracy and their opposition to all sorts of coups. The people took to the streets upon the call of President Erdogan and thus prevented the coup.

Let me give you a warning. FETO poses a threat against national security not only for Turkey but for all the 170 countries where it is active. The tactics they used in Turkey are also used by them in other countries. The organisation’s main strategy is to infiltrate state institutions, primarily intelligence, security and judiciary institutions, to influence the society and to take control of economic resources under the guise of education, dialogue, tolerance and civil society activity. This organization, which lacks values and morals, staged conspiracy plots against leading figures of the Turkish society, by deeming any instrument legitimate to achieve its vile objectives from wiretapping to secret filming to stealing exam marks.
questions and attempted to stage a coup when they felt they were at their strongest. I would like to avail myself of this opportunity to call all our friends to swiftly take all actions against Gülenist Terrorist Organization to protect their security and future of their countries to cooperate with Turkey in this direction. We request that our call is put on record as such.

Our country has suffered a lot from terrorism and will continue to fight against all forms of terrorism, no matter what the name – DAESH, PKK, PYD or FETO; I assure you that Turkey has an undisputable determination to fight against terrorism. We are also expecting our allies to fight all sorts of terrorism without making any distinction between them and through a principled approach. An organisation perpetrating a suicide attack in Ankara, Istanbul, Lahore, Kabul, Aleppo, Gaza is a terrorist organisation. So are the others perpetrating a suicide attack in Brussels and Paris. We must be able to say "Je suis Lahore, Aleppo, Kabul, Istanbul, Ankara, Gaza just as we say "Je suis Paris, je suis Brussels" and act in an equally sensitive manner regardless of the location of such terrorist attacks.

It is necessary to fight all of them and their sister organizations with the same degree of determination. International community must adopt that principle and act accordingly. Terrorism has no religion, ethnicity or nationality. We must put up a joint fight against all terrorist organizations regardless of their location or target of their acts.

Dear guests,

It took a long time, many hardships and efforts of many states for the world to reach its current level of democracy and universal values such as human rights and rule of law on which it built a new civilization. All these values involved a centuries-long struggle and cost many lives. The world will continue to pay other costs in order to strengthen and expand these values. This means that we have to defend all together democracy, human rights and rule of law for future generations, just as people before us worked together to make these universal values. I believe that the APA will continue to play a key role in defending and protecting these values.

To support the Asian Parliamentary Assembly in this role, Turkey will continue to deal with regional and global developments through a human-centred approach and to take a leading role in peace-building actions based on stability and development, as it has done before.

We are saddened and affected by the cases of instability, conflicts and humanitarian emergencies that take place in most of our close neighbour countries with which we have close historical, cultural and social links. It will remain a priority for Turkey to make all the efforts possible to solve such cases and to heal the wounds.
Dear Guests,

To conclude, I wish you a successful and fruitful 9th Plenary of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly and congratulate primarily the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia and all those who have contributed to the successful conduct of the meeting.

We take pride in the Turkish Parliament's taking over the Presidency of the Asian Parliamentary Assembly for 2017-2018; and thank you for your strong support. On this occasion, I would like to express that we will be pleased to host you in our country during our term as President of the APA.

I would like to renew our call regarding the Gulenist Terrorist Organization and call upon all our friends in Asia to swiftly take all necessary measures against the Gulenist Terrorist Organization for their own security and cooperate with Turkey in this direction. It is my hope that cooperation with the APA members in our struggle against the Gulenist Terrorist Organization will be reflected in the closing declaration of this Conference.

I would like to conclude my speech with a video regarding the bloody coup attempt staged by the Gulenist Terrorist Organization.

Thank you for your attention.

Thank you.
Speech by the Head of Delegation from Viet Nam

As delivered 29.11.2016

SPEECH OF H.E. MDM TONG THI PHONG, VICE PRESIDENT OF VIET NAM NATIONAL ASSEMBLY, HEAD OF VIET NAM DELEGATION AT THE PLENARY SESSION OF THE 9TH APA

"Promoting peace and sustainable development in Asia"

Exccllency Mr Chairman,

Exccllencies Speakers, Heads of Delegations and deputies,

Ladies and Gentlemen,

On behalf of the Viet Namese National Assembly delegation, I would like to express my gratitude for your warm hospitality extended to our delegation by the National Assembly of Cambodia. Through you and leaders of Kingdom of Cambodia, I would like to convey to you my great sentiments of the National Assembly and people of Viet Nam. I wish the Plenary a fine success.

Mr Chairman,

Honorable delegates,

A year has passed since the 8th APA plenary in 2015; the world has experienced many complicated developments with undermining and unpredictable risks. However, we hope that peace, cooperation and development remain the prevailing stream in international relations because it is the legitimate aspiration of all people.

I highly appreciate the theme of the Conference as "Promoting peace and sustainable development in Asia" and the statements delivered by speakers. Viet Nam is also in agreement with the agenda of the 9th APA Plenary Session, reflecting APA's concern in the field of security, political, economic and sociocultural, dialogue and harmony between religions, ethnicity... to strengthen solidarity, friendship and peace consolidation, economic development and poverty alleviation, support each other in the implementation of sustainable development goals. It is that Asia is home to long-time civilizations and history, the illustration of cultural and religious diversity. On the foundation of such values of mankind civilization, rising above differences in political institutions, history, ethnicity and religions, Asian countries need to strengthen cooperation to promote peace and security, and to cope with common challenges; continue building and consolidating mutual trust, enhance mutual understanding, resolve disputes through dialogue and negotiations based on the fundamental principles of international law, respect for independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity. Connecting people in Asian countries and between Asia and the rest of the world is very important for a continent of peace, prosperity and sustainable development.

Along with the trend of peace and cooperation, focusing on sustainable development is a valuable lesson that we can learn from the SDGs, the Paris Agreement on Climate change. At national level, we need to reform growth models, restructure the economy towards sustainability, ensuring the harmonious balance between economic development and social equity together with protection of environment and natural resources.

Excellency Mr. Chairman,

Distinguished delegates,

We, representing our peoples, need to continue holding our Governments in accountable for implementing the commitments and supervise the Governments; to adopt laws and allocate appropriate budget; as well as safeguard the people’s interests and expand regional, inter-regional and international partnership.

Over 17 years of existence and development, APA today and the predecessor Association of Asian Parliaments for Peace (AAPP) with its mission to promote peace in Asia, has been exerting efforts to preserve peace in the region, build up and steadily cement the trust between nations through dialogue and cooperation on the regional, inter-regional and global scale. Against the new international background, for APA to become an effective parliamentary institution in the region, I respectfully draw your attention to the following matters:

1. Strengthening the organizations and activities of the APA towards efficiency and practicality, meeting the interests and concerns of the member parliaments.

2. Reforming the agenda, further boosting solutions especially to prevent potential conflicts, comply with international law, to build and share standards of conduct including basic principles to govern relations between nations as well as the peaceful settlement of disputes.

3. Enhancing the relationship and interaction between APA Member Parliaments and APA Member Governments to encourage the implementation of the recommendations outlined in APA’s documents and resolutions.

4. Maximizing the voice and participation of the people in the national development processes. This is a prerequisite for ensuring democracy, bringing about peace and stability for countries and regions all over the world.
5. Promoting the exchanges among APA Member Parliaments at all levels, in all forms in order to contribute to the enhancement of mutual understanding and trust between the leaders and MPs, to deepen friendship and relations among nations.

In a capacity of a founding member of AAPP, Viet Nam has always been persistent with its foreign policy of independence, self-reliance, diversification and multi-lateralization of relations; actively integrating into the world; being a friend, reliable partner and a responsible member of international community for peace, cooperation and development. The National Assembly of Viet Nam of innovation, solidarity, creativity and action for the benefit of the people, for the national honor and pride, for the national sustainable development is willing to cooperate with APA Member Parliaments to jointly build up the Asian continent of peace and sustainable development.

I am confident that, under the chairmanship of Mr. President, with the close cooperation of parliamentarians and thorough preparation of the National Assembly of the Kingdom of Cambodia, the 9th APA Plenary will be crowned with great success. It is our privilege to listen to the speeches by Samdech Say Chumm, President of the Senate, Samdech Heng Semrin, President of the National Assembly and Samdech Hun Sen, Prime Minister of Kingdom of Cambodia and see to our own eyes the development of the beautiful country of Cambodia. I wish Cambodia further blossoming development, prosperity and happiness for all Cambodian people.

I wish Mr. Chairman and distinguished delegates good health, happiness and success in your noble capacity.

Before the conclusion of the meeting, the Chairman said he personally does not believe the Asian Parliament is going to be created in 2017 or 2018 because it requires a lot of time, a lot of consultations and there are many complicated questions to be decided upon. He mentioned we must be able to build a consensus among all APA Member Parliaments and put together a feasibility report on how to build an Asian Parliament otherwise we will not have the approval of all Parliaments. He emphasized on necessity of a combined cooperation by all sub-regional groups to work together, study the different aspects of the project and consideration of those reports by the SCCAP, Standing Committee on Political Affairs, 1st and 2nd Executive Council meetings and referring the outcome to the Plenary for final approval is a must.

The meeting was adjourned at 6.30 p.m.
Annex to the Report of the Special Committee on Creation of Asian Parliament (SCCAP)
Presented by Senate of Pakistan

Evolution of SCCAP

Creation of an Asian Parliament had been resonating in the discussions and Agenda items of APA Meetings and Plenary sessions in one way or another. It was when the Senate of Pakistan assumed the APA Presidency for the term 2013 – 2015, the need of creating a special committee, that could take further the task of establishing an Asian Parliament, was discussed in detail and the concept was reflected in the ‘Islamabad Declaration’ and the Report of the 6th APA Plenary held in Islamabad in December 2013.

2. During early 2014, the APA General Secretariat, Tehran prepared a document titled, ‘Foundations of an Asian Parliament.’ The document is a well thought-out report that discusses various opportunities and commonalities amongst the Asian States and highlights basic structure of many regional parliamentary forums. The document concludes by raising a question for Asian leadership to decide whether we want to establish an altogether new organization or gradually transform the existing structure of the APA into an Asian Parliament. APA General Secretariat, Tehran disseminated the document, at multiple occasions, seeking feedback from the APA Member States, however, the responses were not received, as expected.

3. In December 2014, 7th APA Plenary held in Lahore, approved establishment of the ‘Special Committee on Creation of an Asian Parliament (SCCAP).’ The SCCAP was to work on a single agenda of developing consensus within Member Parliaments to formulate a road map for the Asian Parliament. The decision was formally included in ‘Lahore Declaration’ and in the Report of the 7th APA Plenary.

4. Pakistan pursued the SCCAP agenda and soon after the of 7th Plenary, erstwhile Chairman Senate of Pakistan/ President APA met the President of European Parliament and discussed the prospects of Asian Parliament. During 2015, Pakistan/ President APA wrote letters to all Presiding Officers of APA Member and Observer Parliaments and sought input on the proposed workings of the SCCAP. The communication was meant to take all APA Member Parliaments onboard and develop outline document of the future Asian Parliament. Except from Sri Lanka and New Zealand, no responses were received. During 2015, the Senate of Pakistan also adopted a Resolution and recognized that the proposed Asian Parliament shall be an institutionalized voice of Asian century. The Asian Parliaments were urged to adopt similar resolutions in their respective parliaments and request their respective executives to take concrete steps and move at a fast pace for establishment of an Asian Parliament. Unfortunately, the Senate of Pakistan, until it handed over the APA presidency to the Kingdom of Cambodia at the 8th APA Plenary session in Phnom Penh in December 2015, did not receive feedback from any APA Member Parliament.

5. To formulize the reporting line of the SCCAP, the 8th APA Plenary superseded its earlier decisions of 7th APA Plenary that established the SCCAP to be based in Islamabad, and adopted that the SCCAP shall report to the APA Standing Committee on Political Affairs. Jordan, elected Vice President of the Political Affairs Committee, hosted a meeting of SCCAP in June 2016 on the sidelines of Standing Committee meeting. It was emphasized, during the meeting, that creation of Asian Parliament was a long term project and requires study of various aspects related to its creation. The participating States also pledged to raise the matter in their respective parliaments and shall send their feedback on the APA Secretariat’s document ‘Foundations of an Asian Parliament.’ APA Secretariat Tehran shall apprise of any further development in the process.

6. The Senate of Pakistan is grateful to all APA Members and especially the President APA for electing Pakistan as the Vice President of APA Standing Committee on Political Affairs for the year 2017. Being Chair of the Political Affairs Committee, the Senate of Pakistan shall host independent meetings of the SCCAP before it may submit concrete proposals to the Political Affairs Committee.

Asian Parliament – Way Forward

7. As the first step, and to generate a meaningful discussion on the matter, Mian Raza Rabbani, Chairman Senate of Pakistan during the Meeting of APA Standing Committee on Economic & Sustainable Development Affairs held in Islamabad on 26th July, 2016, presented a proposal to APA Parliaments to form 5 to 7 sub-regional geo-political groups within APA. These sub-groups are being formed with the sole purpose of facilitating the discussion on creation of the Asian Parliament. It has been experienced that in larger meetings, discussions leading to concrete proposals were difficult to attain, therefore singular purpose of these sub-groups would be that each sub-group may formulate its own proposals for transmission to the SCCAP.

8. The sub-groups shall meet on the sidelines of the meetings of the four APA Standing Committees, two Executive Council Meetings and also additional meetings, as convenient to them, during the year. The Members of each sub-group may wish to elect/appoint its representative to coordinate its meetings and follow up on the agenda of their respective sub-groups. The sub-groups shall provide consensus based input of their region to the SCCAP.

9. The Senate of Pakistan will host the First Meeting of SCCAP during February 2017. The SCCAP meeting will deliberate on the modalities and requisites of Asian Parliament like its composition, bureau, membership, defining its power, whether advisory or legislative and mode of election. The SCCAP shall also discuss various existing models of regional parliamentary platforms and shall propose the desired model of the Asian Parliament. As part of generating consensus amongst APA States on integration of Asia, poverty alleviation, human rights, environment and other issues of common interest shall be on the agenda of SCCAP during 2017. An initial working plan for the Asian Parliament shall be reached in the following manner:

- a. First meeting of the SCCAP shall discuss the issues referred above and would generate a report, laying recommendations and follow up plan until the second SCCAP meeting takes place.

- b. Second meeting of the SCCAP shall be held after an interval of at least two to three months. The meeting, in addition to its own agenda, will take account of the progress made by Member States after the first meeting of the SCCAP.

- c. Report of the second meeting of SCCAP shall be based on the feedback and input received from Member States. These two reports shall be presented to the Standing Committee on Political Affairs for inclusion in its agenda for discussion.

d. The Political Affairs Committee shall, for the third time, deliberate on the findings of two SCCAP reports and will develop an initial road map of the Asian Parliament. The road map shall be proposed to the Executive Council meeting, which will eventually forward the same to the Plenary for adoption.

10. Keeping in view membership of APA Member States at various international fora, a provisional grouping of Member Parliaments may be categorized as follows:

i. South Asia: Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Bhutan, India, Iran, Maldives, Nepal, Pakistan and Sri Lanka;

ii. South East Asia: Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Malaysia, Palau, Philippines, Singapore, Thailand and Vietnam;

iii. East Asia: China, South Korea, North Korea, Kiribati, Mongolia and Tonga;

iv. Central Asia: Azerbaijan, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Russia, Tajikistan and Uzbekistan;

v. Middle East: Bahrain, Cyprus, Iraq, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Palestine, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Turkey, UAE and Yemen.

11. The above grouping of APA Member countries Parliament is suggestive and Members may join any of the above mentioned sub-regional group based on their geographical identity and proximity. APA Secretariat and Member Parliaments are welcome to propose any addition/deletion on the above proposal.

Asian Parliament: What is to be done?

12. As stated in Paragraph 2 of this Report, the document ‘Foundations of an Asian Parliament’ raised a basic question, whether we want to establish a new organization or we can find best ways to gradually transform the existing APA into an Asian Parliament. The SCCAP shall take-on this question during its first meeting in February 2017. In case, Member States decide to establish a new parliamentary organization, the SCCAP shall continue to explore various modules of parliamentary forums and shall develop a strategy to achieve it. However, if the Members decide to work on the possibility of using the existing platform of APA till a final decision is taken, in this case, the Senate of Pakistan has some proposals to further institutionalize the APA and strengthen the APA Secretariat by transforming its structure in line with those of other international parliamentary associations including the CPA and the IPU.

13. The proposals shall be on the agenda of SCCAP and shall be formalized with consensus. The APA Charter and Rules of Procedure shall be thoroughly consulted in either scenario and SCCAP may recommend amendments, if so required. This will only strengthen the APA so that it may play a pro-active role as one of the largest international parliamentary association with 42 Member Parliaments and 16 Observer Parliaments representing 4 billion* of people.
14. Some proposals in APA organizational structures may include:

a. Constitution of an Executive Committee of APA. The APA Executive Committee shall be constituted with elected members for three years term to carry out functions related to membership of APA, agenda settings, budget, administration and execution of decisions taken by APA Plenary.

b. The existing provision about election of APA President may be fully operationalized.

c. An ‘APA Young Parliamentarian Group’ may be created. This Group will not only encourage young parliamentarians to join Asian Parliaments, but shall put forward youth’s perspective to the workings of the APA, in general, and SCCAP in particular.

d. The 7th APA Plenary adopted a Resolution, ‘Special Committee on APA Women Parliamentarian’ wherein, it was proposed that APA States must include women MPs as part of their delegation. The proposal may be given legal effect so that the ‘APA Women Parliamentarian’ forum could become active and contribute to the workings of SCCAP during the course of Asian Parliament.

15. Whether a new organization is established or the APA is converted into Asian Parliament, the foremost requirement is the political will of APA Member States. The will of the Asian Parliaments shall determine how long it will take to achieve the dream of an Asian Parliament. Requesting Member parliaments to ensure their participation at all SCCAP meetings during 2017 and contribute substantially in the discussions of the SCCAP meetings, the Senate of Pakistan once again urge fellow parliamentarians to come prepared on the agenda items of SCCAP and besides giving concrete input, on the proposals given in this Report, may share other ideas and proposals.

We, therefore, stress the importance of maintaining world peace, security, stability and development;

Emphasizing that violent extremism, which can be conducive to terrorism, should not be associated with any culture, civilization, religion or ethnicity and should be neither tolerated nor condoned. The resolving of issues through radicalization, violent extremism, terrorism causes great hardship and breeds even more violence, settlement of the issues should be by dialogue and negotiation;

Underlining our commitment to building societies based on the rule of law with Asian Parliaments not only representing Asian people, but also enacting legislation and promoting dialogues, reconciliation and a culture of peace;
Agreeing, in principle, that the vision of an Asian Parliament shall meet the goals and aspirations of Asia in the 21st century. SCCAP, chaired by Pakistan, has been entrusted with the task of taking this vision forward by consensus through consultation.

Welcoming the entry into force of the Paris Agreement under the United Nations Framework Agreement on Climate Change on 4 November 2016 and the Marrakech Action Proclamation for Our Climate and Sustainable Development adopted at the United Nations Climate Change Conference in Morocco that concluded on 18 November 2016;

Expressing our utmost concern at the passing of the JASTA Law by the US Congress in September 2016, which is in direct violation of the UN Convention on Jurisdictional Immunity of States and their Property. APA urges its members to call upon the US Government and Congress to retreat from this law.

Rejecting all US unilateral and extra-territorial laws and judicial verdicts against other states especially APA members which are in contradiction to international law, United Nations Charter and violate sovereignty and independence of states;

DO HEREBY EXPRESS OUR COMMITMENT TO:

Emphasize the need to promote peace, reconciliation and dialogue in Asia, hereby promoting democracy, the rule of law and the role of Parliaments.

Urge APA and all other stakeholders to support the reconciliation process with Taliban and other militant/armed groups in Afghanistan;

Express our support to the Palestinian people on the International Day of Solidarity with the Palestinian People;

Denounce the interfering activities of any country which have, under the pretext of defending human rights and democracy, led to wars in several sub-regions of the world, causing incalculable deaths, extreme suffering and misery as well as millions of refugees.

Hold parties responsible for overthrowing legitimate governments for the consequences of their actions including human suffering and the forced displacement of people, noting that Asian people have been particularly affected by forced regime changes since the mid-20th century, and that those who support such changes have the responsibility of providing shelter, food and jobs to refugees and other displaced people;

Congratulate and support the Iraqi government in its war against terrorism and its determination to liberate its land from terrorist groups;

Express concern about the territorial unity of Syria and condemn the killing of innocent people especially children;

Support the call for deeper discussions and an international conference on the root causes of terrorism and the implications of regime change policies, including the assessment of human suffering caused by this policy implementation;

Recognize that we have an urgent duty to respond to the alarming and unprecedented warning of the global climate, and we call for further climate action and support, taking into account the reaffirmation of the $100 billion mobilization goal of developed country parties as stated in the Marrakech Action Proclamation as well as the special needs and circumstances of developing countries, least-developed countries and those particularly vulnerable to the adverse impacts of climate change;
